Preselection open for Narungga

Rhiannon Koch
JOURNALIST

THE Liberal Party wants to run a candidate in the seat of Narungga.

Members of the state executive met last night (Monday, January 17) and elected to open nominations for a week, closing Monday, January 24.

Incumbent Narungga MP Fraser Ellis suspended his Liberal Party membership in February 2021 after the Independent Commissioner Against Corruption investigation into the Country Members Accommodation Allowance.

In October, Mr Ellis wrote to the party asking for their endorsement as candidate for the seat.

Mr Ellis has confirmed he will run in the March election as an independent.

"This essentially changes nothing in the way that I operate as my community's local Member of Parliament," he said.

"I have always put our community first, ahead of the party, which was best exemplified when I crossed the floor to vote against the government on the mining bill."

Mr Ellis, said while he was disappointed with the decision, he welcomed the fact it had now been made.

"I thank the local branch members for their vocal advocacy in wanting me as the Liberal candidate and for the strong local support they have always shown me, and continue to provide me," he said.

"I believe I have a strong track record of advocating for what our community needs and then delivering it and, if re-elected I intend to keep putting our community first and delivering what it needs."

Animal protection

BRINGING an animal into the family should be a joyous and loving event, but many animals end up living a nightmare, or even being killed, with cruelty cases rising to appalling levels.

Some of the worst cases seen by the RSPCA have involved dogs being starved or neglected despite serious injuries, a cat drowned in a rubbish bin, and a horse with a large, gaping wound on his chest left untreated.

The rate of animal cruelty in South Australia is shocking, with the RSPCA reporting 4398 cruelty complaints investigated in the year 2020-21, resulting in 29 charges being laid. Unfortunately, a lot more cases probably went unreported.

Animal abusers are cowards. Because animals cannot report abuse and can do little to fight back, they're often used as "practice" victims by violent people.

Research in psychology and criminology shows people who commit acts of cruelty to animals often go on to commit violent acts against their fellow humans.

A study by Dr John Clarke, a lecturer in psychology at the University of Sydney and consultant to the New South Wales Police Force, demonstrated, using police data, that 61.5 per cent of convicted animal abuse offenders had also committed an assault and 17 per cent were guilty of sexual abuse.

Most disturbingly, animal abuse was a better predictor of sexual assault than previous convictions for homicide, arson, or firearms offences.

Only one per cent of cruelty-to-animals offenders had no other convictions at all.

Cruelty to animals in South Australia carries a penalty of up to $50,000 or four years' imprisonment. These penalties need to be applied rigorously by the criminal justice system; cruelty to animals must be taken seriously for everyone's sake.

If you suspect someone of abusing an animal, report it to authorities right away, for the safety of the entire community.

Voting safety

THE state election is almost upon us, and the Omicron variant is all around.

Irrespective of a forecast peak in infections, voting will still be held during a time of risk. I believe the election should be undertaken by postal vote alone.

Premier Marshall could be ringing the changes now, not delaying, and thereby playing into the hands of the virus.

SA should not be an Omicron election casualty, it's entirely unnecessary.

Get involved with REDFEB

EVERY 10 minutes an Australian suffers a heart attack. Sadly, many do not survive with 48 Australians dying every single day from heart disease — someone's family member, wife, husband, or special friend who means the world to them.

Given heart disease is our biggest killer, it would be impossible for all Australian communities to not be impacted in some way.

The simple fact is there is still so much for us to learn about heart disease and research saves lives.

Heart Research Australia aims to reduce the devastating impact heart disease has on families and the community by supporting world-class and emerging researchers to conduct ground-breaking research into the prevention, diagnosis and treatment of heart disease.

That's why this February we invite all Australians to get involved with REDFEB, heart health awareness month, to raise much-needed funds for ground-breaking research into heart disease.

Getting involved is as simple as wearing red and donating to Heart Research Australia during the month of February.

For more information or to donate, please visit www.heartresearch.com.au.

On behalf of the thousands of Australians impacted by heart disease every year, thank you for your support.

OUR VIEW

Covid balance

I'VE had to reintroduce a limit on my news consumption. Which, I admit, seems odd for a newspaper editor.

In the early days of the pandemic, which seem such a long time ago, I would have a huge sense of dread before each press conference.

Would the numbers be high? Would they be someone I know? What do these changes mean for my community?

Limiting my time on the internet allowed me to still consume the valuable information I needed for my own understanding and my job, but also allow myself space to breathe.

Two years into this new normal, and it feels slightly different.

I find myself searching for opinion piece after opinion piece and reading every expert take and recommendation I can find to try and understand the situation we're in better.

I'm not filled with impending dread anymore. Not all the time.

Instead, it's unease about how various governments have prepared and planned for reopening and the implications it has on those around me.

We're not in a lockdown but I know several people who are living life in a restricted manner because they can't afford to get sick or pass it on to others.

There's the uncertainty around accessibility to vaccines and testing, although our local health staff are doing their absolute bests.

Our frontline workers in supermarkets and service stations are also doing their bit and must be sick of people asking after rapid antigen tests when they also have no stock.

Parents, teachers and school staff preparing for term 1 and all the challenges it presents as well, with some children learning from home and others in a classroom for now.

There are many layers here too — what happens if the students are in a mixed class?

I know the local schools are working to get information out to families as quickly as they can, as they're only figuring it out.

I'm not an expert in health, or government planning, but I feel for everyone affected by these curve balls that seem to keep coming.

JUGGLING ACT

Covid-19 circus throws schools a curve ball

Patrick Goldsmith
REPORT BY

THE state government has announced its hybrid return to schools for students.

Students, teachers and parents will juggle at least two weeks of mixed face-to-face and online learning as part of the plan.

Schools will reopen for children of essential workers and those who are vulnerable on Monday, January 31.

Preschool, reception and years 1, 7, 8 and 12 students will be returning to classrooms two days later, Wednesday, February 2.

All other students will learn from home for two weeks with the aim to return all students to the classroom by Monday, February 14.

For the first time, it has been strongly recommended students as young as year 3 wear masks while attending school. Classes will also continue if a teacher or student is a close contact.

Premier Steven Marshall said a plan was devised in full knowledge there would be disruptions to the start of the school year.

“While we understand there will be disruptions to the start of 2022 and it’s going to be challenging for a lot of families, we have put our kids first with this schools plan — they learn better face to face and that is what we’ve worked hard to achieve,” he said.

“What we’re doing here is trying to get the balance right.”

Local concerns

Kadina parents Krystle and Rhyder Atkinson fear their youngest child, Lochi, who is starting reception, won’t want to go without sisters Savanna 10, and Taleigha, 8.

“He’s been incredibly excited about going to school because while he was in kindergarten, and his big sisters were both in school, they couldn’t go and see him,” Mr Atkinson said.

“He’s been so excited to have those moments with them, and now they can’t even do that for two weeks.”

Mrs Atkinson questioned why school holidays weren’t extended for two weeks.

“Those first two weeks in reception are incredibly important because that’s when you make friends and you get an understanding of how school is going to work, so we don’t want him missing out,” she said.

Minlaton District School principal Ali Bogle said the priority would be providing time and support for teachers to develop materials and ensuring the school community was well informed.

“Our leadership staff will be meeting this coming Wednesday to prepare for the return of staff the following week,” Ms Bogle said.

“Putting in place contingency for the impact of Covid cases within our school and community will also form a major part of our planning agenda.”

JUGGLE... Kadina parents Rhyder and Krystle Atkinson will be taking new reception student Lochi, 4, off to Kadina Memorial School while sisters Savanna, 10, year 6, and Taleigha, 8, year 3, will stay home to learn under the new hybrid schooling format.

Grants for GPs and pharmacies for Covid vaccination

MORE vaccines will be administered into the arms of South Australians with extra funding available for GPs and pharmacies.

South Australian primary care providers will have the opportunity to apply for the additional funding to increase their capacity to deliver more vaccines across the state.

Premier Steven Marshall said more than 600 primary care providers, including General Practices and pharmacies authorised by the Commonwealth Government to administer Covid-19 vaccinations are invited to apply for the grants.

“This extra funding boost is designed to ensure selected GPs, pharmacies and health services have the capacity to increase vaccination uptake in both metropolitan and regional areas over the next crucial few weeks,” Mr Marshall said.

“These first-time grants will enable primary care providers to extend opening hours, recruit additional immunisers and support staff, expand existing in-reach services, as well as to further promote and advertise vaccination opportunities within the local community, particularly to high-risk groups.”

Supply disruptions reaching our shelves

Jess Liddy
JOURNALIST

SURGING cases of Covid-19 are driving the transport industry to a halt.

The effects are trickling down into supply chains causing headaches for many retailers — in particular the bigger chains including Woolworths and Drakes.

Drakes general manager Bob Soang said, at any given time, 25 per cent of what they ordered from suppliers was unavailable due to various reasons.

“At present, we do have some issues with short supply from our meat and poultry suppliers as they are experiencing serious Covid issues and this has resulted in lower than usual stock,” Mr Soang said.

“There is also a shortage in chicken so consumers are buying other types of meat which then also has an impact, not to mention extra demand and panic buying.

“As people buy more, we are ordering more, but this does then put the supplier under pressure which impacts the entire chain.

“Fortunately, at this stage, the impact in our Copper Coast stores is quite minimal with only a few out of stocks; however, this could increase dependent upon the continued impact of Covid.”

Kadina Gourmet Meats owner Rhys O’Donohue said his Kadina and Moonta stores had more than enough supply.

“We source our meat from local farmers so we aren’t relying on so many people down a supply chain to get stock into our stores,” Mr O’Donohue said.

“So if we are to see an impact it will only be very minimal.

“If anything, we have been more in demand, people are sourcing their meat from us which is really great to see.

“It really is the perfect chance to support local, local people and local businesses.”

SA not as bad as other states

In an email to customers, Woolworths CEO Brad Banducci said customers would have noticed gaps on the shelves, including in Kadina.

“Unlike the surge buying of early 2020, this is because of the number of people in our supply chain in isolation — from suppliers to truck drivers and distribution centre team members — which in turn is causing material delays to store deliveries,” Mr Banducci said.

“We are experiencing Covid-driven absences of 20 per cent-plus in our distribution centres and more than 10 per cent in our stores.

“We understand how frustrating it is when you can’t find the product you’re looking for and, together with our suppliers and supply chain partners, we’re working hard to get all products back on the shelf as quickly as we can (including rapid antigen tests).

“In the meantime, we have more than enough stock in the system and plenty more coming.

“We would of course also ask you to keep shopping as you normally would and to continue to show kindness to our teams.

“There is no quick fix to the issue and customers are likely to see patchy shelves for a number of weeks.”

IN DEMAND... Kadina Gourmet Meats butcher Braidyn May said the store hasn’t experienced supply issues like the bigger retailers.

RAT race begins

Jess Liddy
JOURNALIST

CHANGES to Covid-19 testing has kicked off around the state. Health authorities have moved towards rapid antigen tests as an alternative to the PCR tests.

South Australians who are deemed a close contact of a positive Covid case will now be able to receive two free RAT kits from SA Health — if there is a collection point near them.

Currently there are no collection points on Yorke Peninsula.

Copper Coast Council is supporting a call by Member for Narungga Fraser Ellis for a location somewhere within the electorate.

“With 241 Covid-19 cases on the Copper Coast and 468 cases within the Yorke Peninsula region, our local community needs easily accessible tests to help reduce the spread and protect our health,” a council spokesperson said.

“With the nearest collection sites at either Port Augusta or Adelaide, a site on the Copper Coast is central and serviceable to many nearby regional residents.

“Regional residents should not be disadvantaged compared with their metro counterparts.”

Close contacts must register online at the SA Health website and will be then sent a receipt to collect testing packs.

Premier Steven Marshall said using RATs for close contacts was the next step to tackling the Omicron outbreak.

“Offering two free RATs for people who are considered close contacts will allow us to increase the number of tests taken so we can get a clearer picture of how many Covid positive people are in the community,” he said.

“I ask all South Australians to work with us as we make this pivot in our testing regime, it’s a big change so it will take some time to get used to.

“If you don’t have immediate access to a RAT test and you are a close contact, or of course have symptoms, please continue to use the more than 80 PCR testing sites we have across the state.”

There are currently more than 580 active cases across Yorke Peninsula, Copper Coast, Barunga West and Wakefield Regional Council areas.

RAT collection sites can be found on www.sahealth.sa.gov.au/wps/wcm/connect/Public+Content/SA+Health+Inter

Peak to be less significant

Updated Omicron modelling completed by Professor Joshua Ross at the University of Adelaide has shown increased public health measures reduced Covid case numbers.

Projected modelling in South Australia remains slightly uncertain and depends heavily on the behaviour of South Australians during the coming week; however, the model predicts SA will hit the peak of this current wave between January 15 and January 25.

During that period, peak cases are projected to be between 6000 and 10,000 per day.

The model does suggest the state may never see cases that high and we could be in the peak period right now.

At the peak, it is predicted SA will have around 370 hospital admissions and 50 in ICU, well below the recent ‘500 Bed Plan’ announced by the government to ensure our hospitals are not overrun.

Funding gushes in for stormwater projects

Jess Liddy
JOURNALIST

COPPER Coast Council has been flooded with funding. The state Stormwater Management Authority has given council $513,600 to help with the Moonta Road, Moonta Bay, and George Street, Moonta, flood mitigation projects.

About 1.1 kilometres of new drain will be constructed along Moonta Road between East Terrace and Marine Parade to improve the level of flood protection to local residents.

George Street will receive 500 metres of new stormwater drain from Queen Square through to Ellen Street.

“We are very appreciative of the state government funding which will help facilitate both of these projects,” Mayor Roslyn Talbot said.

“Flooding in George Street between Ellen and Henry Streets has been a problem for many years.

“Underground storm water will alleviate this problem and it is a project that is long overdue.”

Member for Narungga Fraser Ellis said it was wonderful to see further investment into local infrastructure which will improve the community.

“With the significant works being done on Bay Road (Moonta Bay) now is the perfect time to complete the stormwater works,” Mr Ellis said.

FLOOD MITIGATION... Member for Narungga Fraser Ellis and Copper Coast Council mayor Roslyn Talbot on Moonta Road, Moonta Bay, one of two stormwater projects for which council received state government funding.

“I am pleased council was successful in its application to the state’s Stormwater Management Authority for assistance for the Moonta Road flood mitigation project, and that this important project is to receive $333,600 along with a further $180,000 for the George Street flood mitigation project.

“This investment will ensure the properties along these roads will have the necessary level of flood protection with appropriate drainage infrastructure, and I’m additionally pleased these works can be undertaken in conjunction with the major sealing works.”

Call to recall state parliament

MEMBER for Narungga Fraser Ellis has supported a request to recall the South Australian Parliament to deal with ongoing Covid-19 pandemic.

The House of Assembly adjourned in late December and will not resume until after the state election on March 19.

The formal request, to recall parliament from February 8-10, was submitted to Premier Steven Marshall by parliamentary speaker Dan Cregan with the support of Labor and cross-bench MPs.

“When parliament rose for the year, it appeared that we had Covid under control but with the onset of Omicron and subsequent alarming rises in case numbers and hospitalisations, our health services and community and business sectors are now under great duress and all of SA’s leaders must rise to the challenges being faced,” Mr Ellis said.

“I take my responsibility as a state MP representing the Narungga electorate very seriously and believe it is necessary to recall parliament in order for me to appropriately take the concerns of my community to the decision-makers for full accountability.

“A litany of questions that should have answers irrespective of whether a new variant emerged or not are daily raised with me and it is greatly concerning that getting answers for my community has been unacceptably difficult without direct briefings, resulting in widespread confusion and distress.”

Another park for your pooch

Jess Liddy
JOURNALIST

COPPER Coast canines will soon have a third dog park to choose from. The Moonta dog park, on the corner of Bay Road and Robert Street, is set to open to all dogs and their owners from late January/early February. Copper Coast Council director of infrastructure services Tim

Neumann said works were nearing completion with fencing, “air lock” entry and exit gates, and dog play equipment now all installed. “Now all we’ve got to do is wait for the grass to grow and tidy up the surrounding area in preparation for the opening,” he said. “The park is set to have a more natural look to tie in with Polgreen Park across the road, but will still have all the essentials you and your pup will need like the Kadina and Wallaroo dog parks.” Mayor Roslyn Talbot said it would be a lovely place for people to socialise with their dogs. “Not only that, it is a great way for dog owners to socialise and meet new people as well,” Mrs Talbot said. “The dog park really tidies up the area and makes it cohesive with Polgreen Park.” Moonta resident Kristen Zerna said it was nice to see a safe space in the town for dog owners and their pets. “The dog park is looking good with a lovely grassed area and it is reassuring to know it is well secured with a good-sized fence,” she said. “My son Fynn is excited to bring our dog Ryder here to run around off-leash.”

Former teacher to stand trial

FORMER Kadina Memorial School teacher Thomas Ackland has pleaded not guilty to more than a dozen child sex offences. Mr Ackland, 29, answered to nine counts of maintaining an unlawful sexual relationship with a child and five counts of communicating to make a child amenable to sexual activity at the Adelaide Magistrates Court last Tuesday, January 11. The court heard the alleged offences occurred between 2018 and 2020, before Mr Ackland was arrested in March. He has been remanded on continuing bail to face court again on Friday, April 8.

Licence crackdown on drug drivers

STEP FORWARD... Minister for Road Safety Vincent Tarzia said a new law, which allows police to issue an instant loss of licence to drug drivers, will boost the safety of South Australian roads.

DANGEROUS drivers can now be instantly stripped of their licence following a positive roadside drug test result. The Australian-first legislation is set to boost road safety after being passed by the state government late last year. Minister for Road Safety Vincent Tarzia said the bill was intended to prevent further South Australian lives being lost. “Drug drivers have no place on our roads and this bill has shut down a dangerous loophole that afforded irresponsible motorists with opportunities to continue driving despite positive drug tests,” Mr Tarzia said. “We make no apologies for this crackdown on selfish drivers who put innocent lives at risk.” About 15 per cent of lives lost on South Australian roads were attributed to drug driving last year. SA-BEST MLC Connie Bonaros said the new law will save innocent lives. “It is obvious from SAPOL road statistics current drug driving laws serve as little deterrent to motorists who choose to drive while under the influence of drugs,” Ms Bonaros said. “I hope these tough new laws go a long way to addressing that disturbing trend – innocent lives are depending on it.” Previously, a driver who returned a positive roadside drug screening test was not issued an instant loss of licence, but instead an oral fluid sample was collected and provided to Forensic Science SA for spectrometry analysis. If the analysis returned positive, the driver would be advised of their three-month licence disqualification. Therefore, there was a 28-day delay before a loss of licence was enforced, leaving drug drivers free to endanger lives.

PETstock em-barks on new chapter

Fin Hansen
REPORT BY

FUR enthusiasts will have optimal access to pet supplies on Yorke Peninsula from April.

PETstock is set to open its doors at 50 Hughes Street, Wallaroo, formerly occupied by Foodland.

With more than 140 stores Australia-wide, the family-owned brand will launch its first PETstock Country store at the 1140 square metre premises.

The store will offer tailored rural pet supplies catering to all household pets including dogs, cats, fish, reptiles, birds, and horses.

A range of services will also be available on site, including a dog wash, grooming salon, puppy school and a fish tank.

PETstock SA state manager Belinda Stansfield said the store will create 10 local jobs, and will begin recruitment in the near future.

“PETstock will deliver the services, products and outstanding customer service for which it’s so well known for,” she said.

“It will also cater for rural needs including fencing, crop management, weed and pest control, water equipment such as troughs, pumps and tanks, as well as general rural merchandise and livestock health.”

PETstock will also offer its PETadopt program, which supports local rescue groups with in-store pet adoption days, as well as various fundraising and awareness activities.

“We are excited about the impact we can have by re-homing animals,” Ms Stansfield

“Supporting local pet adoption is important to us and we are looking into local rescue groups that can partner with us in-store once we are open.

“We look forward to welcoming Yorke Peninsula residents to the PETstock family.”

Work on the building and its surrounds is set to commence in February; this will include garden improvements, fresh paint and new signage.

The adjoining business premises are open for tender, and further enquiries can be made to Blights Real Estate property consultant Neville Hibbard via neville@blights.com.au.

WOOF... PETstock SA state manager Belinda Stansfield is looking forward to joining the Yorke Peninsula community when PETstock Country opens its doors in Wallaroo in April.

Bute set for new connection space

Fin Hansen
REPORT BY

BUTE is on track to revitalise its play spaces with the help of a $250,000 state government grant.

Barunga West Council secured the funding through the SA Healthy Towns Challenge and has planned the first stage of works for its Connecting Bute's Outdoor Play Spaces project.

Local families will soon be able to experience new pedestrian crossings, shared paths, a connected Bute Lions Fauna Park and Hummocks walking trail plus an upgraded playground, all as part of the expanded nature play park.

An asphalt track for BMX and scooter riders will also be built, alongside an all-age appropriate bike safety track with replica road signs and line marking.

Additional upgrades will include native plants, a walking trail along the railway line with feature lighting, dedicated parking areas and a viewing area for the silo art.

Mayor Leonie Kerley said the redevelopment aims to create a healthier environment for local families to play, connect and be active in nature.

"We had identified limitations for families in the Bute town centre, which included underutilisation of the area surrounding the decommissioned railway line and few areas for children to play," Mrs Kerley said.

"The positive wellbeing impact of nature-filled play spaces for families to connect and socialise, as well as for children to grow and learn shouldn't be underestimated.

"We're grateful to receive this funding and to continue to grow the region into a safe and exciting place for families to raise children.

"The application was well supported by Wellbeing SA, and we expect it to be transformational for our young community."

The project will be collaboratively delivered with a Bute Advisory Committee and the wider community in order to factor in social and environmental considerations.

Barunga West Council was one of four successful applicants of the program, which has also supported Point Pearce Aboriginal Corporation's Strong Soul Living = Happy Soul program.

Member for Narungga Fraser Ellis said he looked forward to seeing Bute develop its main street precinct with the addition of an outdoor play space.

"Connecting walking tracks will provide Bute with a space it truly deserves," Mr Ellis said.

"The project will make a significant difference to the community and I commend all involved."

Minister for Health and Wellbeing Stephen Wade congratulated successful applicants.

"The four community-led projects all displayed a shared interest in creating healthy environments for children to have the best start in life," he said.

Wellbeing SA chief executive Lyn Dean said a total of 30 organisations applied for the Healthy Towns Challenge.

"By partnering with communities, Wellbeing SA can contribute to building supportive environments where children can grow, be active and connect with their communities," Ms Dean said.

Human impact affects penguin activity, habitats

Patrick Goldsmith
REPORT BY

FLINDERS University ecologists have encouraged Troubridge Island tourists to be wary of — and not interfere with — the habitats of the little penguin, found on the island.

A recent study of 43 penguins across four different locations in South Australia revealed an increased level of human disturbance can lead to increasingly abnormal and aggressive behaviour.

The research was conducted with eight penguins on Granite Island, 20 at Troubridge Island and 15 across locations at Penneshaw and Emu Bay on Kangaroo Island.

“The little penguins in our study were more aggressive and bolder on Granite Island, which has the greatest levels of unregulated human disturbance,” assessment leader Dr Diane Colombelli-Négrel said.

“The aggressiveness did not vary with sex, nest type or breeding stage, indeed, contrary to our prediction, we found no difference in aggressiveness between males and females.

“We demonstrated aggressiveness during nest defence is repeatable in little penguins and may represent a consistent behavioural trait in this species.”

On Troubridge Island, penguins were the largest in size on average but were also the shyest, confirming animals living near urban environments face many pressures linked to human disturbance.

Former Troubridge Island of 26 years, Chris Johnson said, in his eyes, disturbance of such nature hasn’t been too large of an issue.

“In all the time I was there, I don’t think I saw too many signs of human disturbance to the penguins at all,” he said.

“You’ll only ever touch a penguin once, and that’s because you’ll get bitten, and if you don’t you’re extremely lucky.”

Troubridge Island is about 15 minutes away from the mainland and attracts hundreds of visitors a year.

“They’re (all birds) the backbone of the island because we see about 800-1200 (penguin) nests a year,” Mr Johnson said.

“All walks of life come across and the main attraction is the eco-side of the island.”

Mr Johnson said South Australian Research and Development Institute had long been active on the island, learning more about the habitat and animals present.

“They’ve done a lot of work, microchipping a lot of penguins and getting an understanding of what they get up to, how many there are, how far they go,” he said.

“We’ve learnt a lot from that research.”

FRASER ELLIS MP
MEMBER FOR NARUNGGA

January Narungga update

Tough start to 2022

I SYMPATHISE with all who have been impacted by the ongoing pandemic, whether you have contracted the virus, had to isolate as a close contact, lost work because of a shut down, are trying to run a business impacted by workforce shortages and restrictions, are a very busy and tired health worker or have had difficulties accessing a test or vaccine.

Cases are now being reported throughout every council area in the state — our local government areas included — and it has been a tough start to the year for so many.

I also appreciate the complications for parents, students, and school staff any disruptions to the start of the school year will bring.

A staggered start was deemed the best approach by decision makers to keeping the virus at bay and I am pleased that the plan is to have all students back into the classroom for face-to-face learning by February 14.

At time of writing, I await details of student vaccinations, testing and strategies to deal with inevitable cases in schools, and can only advise to stay tuned.

I can report that I have supported a call for Parliament to sit in February for appropriate (and vital) oversight of the management of the ongoing crisis by all MPs to occur.

In some good news, the Narungga electorate has done well in the past three weeks with grant funding allocations which I am very pleased about.

First came the announcement on December 23 two local councils, Barunga West and Yorke Peninsula, will receive a combined total of $569,757.44 from the $1.709 million latest round of the Recreational Fishing, Boating and Camping Facilities Grant Fund.

That's an estimated third of the total fund for our patch — $200,000 for a new pontoon-based jetty at Port Broughton; $29,770 for an upgrade of the Point Turton groyne and $139,987.44 for new camp toilet facilities at various locations on Yorke Peninsula.

On January 5, the Regional Coastal Protection Grants were announced and Narungga electorate was allocated $388,000 of the allocated $1.2m in the latest round, all for local projects that address erosion risks and are vital to protect our precious coastlines.

Successful projects include $55,000 to design defence structures, $20,000 to review hazards at Foul Bay, $208,000 for Moonta Bay foreshore rock armouring, $30,000 for protection works at Port Broughton and $75,000 for fencing at Thompson Beach.

Then recipients of 2021-22 Office for Recreation, Sport and Racing Infrastructure grants funding were announced on January 9, with five clubs successful: $50,000 to assist construct a clubhouse for the Sporting Shooters Association of Australia (Moonta) Inc.; $26,000 to upgrade irrigation at Maitland golf course; and funding to resurface multi-use courts at Alford Tennis Club ($21,900), Bute Sporting Club ($56,000), and Port Broughton Combined Sporting Club ($38,800).

Congratulations to all involved in these deserving projects, and for all you do in improving and maintaining facilities in rural townships.

Memorials with meaning

Fin Hansen
REPORT BY

SOS Copper Coast Suicide Prevention Network has installed the first four Cor Infinitus memorial stones in South Australia.

A stone has been placed at the RSL SA Wallaroo sub-branch, Vietnam Veterans Association of Australia Copper Coast sub-branch, as well as Kadina Memorial and Moonta Area Schools, acknowledging families who have lost a serviceperson through suicide.

The stones also aim to promote conversation about mental health among the entire community.

Cor Infinitus, Latin for infinite courage, is a national initiative created by Kevin Humphreys in Queensland and dedicated to all those who served our nation and were overwhelmed by the battle within.

SOS Copper Coast deputy chairperson Peter Sims was pleased to drive the project locally.

Upon approval, SOS Copper Coast was able to secure enough local donations to fund the project.

Goerecke Memorials, Moonta, was contracted to install the four 90-kilogram granite stones.

One side of the stones features a reminder to those going through a bad time and having suicidal thoughts that they will leave behind parents, partner, children, mates and survivors, while the other side has emergency contact numbers.

Mr Sims said the memorials were a reminder to both current and former servicepeople, as well as the wider community, support is always available.

"Years ago, it was frowned upon to talk about suicide, but it's important to know people suffering from mental health issues are not on their own," Mr Sims said.

"As difficult as this may be, reach out to available support, talk with family and friends who will journey with you."

Vietnam Veterans Association of Australia Copper Coast sub-branch president Rob Nankivell said he was happy with the new stone, residing just inside the Moonta clubrooms' garden.

"I'm very pleased and proud of the initiative," Mr Nankivell said.

"I encourage people to come and check it out — hopefully this makes people more aware of the (mental health) issue."

Wallaroo RSL sub-branch president Glen Boyce said the stone had come up beautifully in the branch's front garden.

"It will make for great opportunities for people to reflect and I welcome anyone to come and check it out," he said.

MEMORIAL... RSL SA Wallaroo sub-branch president Glen Boyce, SOS Copper Coast Suicide Prevention Network chairperson David Boots, Goerecke Memorials representative Dave Finlay and SOS Copper Coast SPN deputy chairperson Peter Sims inspect one of the four new Cor Infinitus stones positioned around the Copper Coast. Inset: Four Cor Infinitus stones, including one at Vietnam Veterans Association of Australia Copper Coast sub-branch, are the first to be established in South Australia. Shaun Mercer and Dave Finlay, Goerecke Memorials, Moonta, provided and installed the stones, which are the first granite memorials as part of the Cor Infinitus project.

FOGO Australia wide by 2023

THE federal government has committed to all households in Australia having a Food Organic Green Organic bin by 2023.

Copper Coast Council is ahead of the trend, implementing its FOGO collection system last year, while nearly 50 per cent of regions across the state are also on board.

A council spokesperson said, whilst council provided waste management to residents, the specifics of waste management and services was in compliance with state and federal government strategies.

“Green Industries SA is responsible for the development of a waste strategy that council must comply with when establishing and maintaining a kerbside waste collection and other waste management services to residents and businesses within the Copper Coast,” the spokesperson said.

“Council is on track to meet federal waste diversion rates by next year with further education and community assistance.”

For more information about South Australia’s waste management go online to greenindustries.sa.gov.au.

In the first six months July-December 2021-22 in the Copper Coast, kerbside waste service has collected:

- 1010 tons of organic waste (compared to 293 ton in 2020-21)
- 627 tons of recycling (compared to 435 ton in 2020-21)
- 1036 tons of general waste (compared 1582 ton in 2020-21)
- This equals 363 tons of additional waste collected (compared in 2020-21)
- Diverting on average 61.2 per cent of kerbside waste from landfill (compared to 31.5 per cent in 2020-21)

Know before you throw

Did you know plastic bags can’t be recycled in the yellow-lidded bin?

Soft plastics such as shopping and produce bags and large plastic packaging must not be placed in the kerbside collection recycling bin.

The plastic can get jammed at the processing plant, it can’t be separated from other lightweight materials and products inside the bags can’t be removed.

If plastic bags are found in the yellow-lidded bin, the plastic bag and all of its contents would be sent to landfill so the bin will not be collected by the garbage contractor.

Soft plastic bags should be deposited in a REDcycle bin located at participating supermarkets — including Kadina Woolworths and Drakes stores.

WASTE TIP... Place items loose in your yellow-lidded bin as plastic bags tangle up and shut down recycling equipment, creating costly and unsafe situations, while also ending up in landfill.

DON'T BAG RECYCLABLES

NO PLASTIC BAGS IN RECYCLING

Soft plastics (e.g. shopping bags, produce bags, large plastic packaging) MUST NOT be placed in the kerbside collection recycling yellow-lidded bin. Recyclable items must NOT be placed inside plastic bags before putting the recyclables into the recycling yellow-lidded bin.

Can soft plastics be recycled elsewhere?

YES – Soft plastic bags should be deposited in a REDCYCLE bin located at participating supermarkets, e.g. Woolworths and Drakes.

DON'T KNOW WHICH BIN?

Butterfish comp still on

THE Clem Graham Senior Memorial Butterfish Competition will occur at Port Victoria and Point Pearce this Saturday, January 22.

The event will look a little different this year with the Gynburra Festival cancelled until January 2023.

Event organiser Garry Goldsmith said, due to the current Covid climate, they couldn't create an entire weekend of festivities.

"We can't hold the usual event for the whole community to enjoy which is a shame," he said.

"But we're thankful we can still host the butterfish competition which is great."

The Clem Graham Senior Memorial Butterfish Competition will start from 7.30am and finish at 4pm.

"Each participant will still have to register for the category they nominate in, open men and under 18s," Mr Goldsmith said.

"The over 55s category will not be required to register and will be eligible for both the Superfish and Butterfish King if their fish is deemed the winner."

Mr Goldsmith said the Gynburra Festival had become the largest singular Aboriginal event in South Australia.

"Although we've had to postpone (the community events), we plan on making 2023 the biggest and best yet," he said.

"With growth comes expectation, and the 2023 Gynburra Festival will provide activities for all the family to enjoy in a safe and friendly environment."

For more information, or to register for this weekend's competition, visit www.gynburra.com, follow the Gynburra Facebook page or contact Garry Goldsmith on 0438 800 486.

Calls for another round of Great State Voucher Scheme

MEMBER for Frome Geoff Brock is calling for another round of Great State Vouchers.

In previous rounds, recipients received $100 vouchers for eligible Adelaide CBD and North Adelaide businesses while $50 per person was on offer for the suburbs and regional areas.

Mr Brock is this time calling for a separate allocation to regional areas.

"I have written to the Premier asking for consideration of another round of the scheme to help vulnerable businesses in this sector get through the latest impacts of the pandemic," he said.

Mr Brock said he supported a call from the South Australian Hoteliers Association to open another round of the vouchers after the scheme already brought an estimated $90 million to state's tourism industry.

"This kind of injection cannot come at a more needed time," he said.

"Businesses all over the state are suffering due to the restrictions placed upon them and the forced closures if they become exposure sites, and any kind of financial assistance is going to help them stay in business."

Federal inquiry into regional news

THE Standing Committee on Communications and the Arts is calling for submissions as part of a new inquiry into Australia's regional newspapers.

Committee members will examine the impact of decisions by large publishers to suspend publications, the entry of new operators and the impact of the News Media Bargaining Code.

"Local news is a vital component to an interconnected community, and a thriving democracy," committee chair Dr Anne Webster MP said.

"At a time when many regional and remote newspaper services are shutting down or moving online, it is vital that we understand the needs of regional communities, and how heavily they rely on their local newspapers to stay connected."

Submissions close on Friday, January 28.

OUTSTANDING individuals and groups are set to be rewarded at Bute and Port Broughton Australia Day ceremonies.

Barunga West Council will recognise those who have made noteworthy contributions or demonstrated outstanding service to the community at celebrations on Wednesday, January 26.

Award winners were required to be residents within the council area and have had a significant local influence through their achievements or respective field.

Mayor Leonie Kerley said the awards are a great opportunity to honour committed individuals and community groups.

"On behalf of council and our community, congratulations to the winners and all who were nominated for awards," Mrs Kerley said.

"We are privileged and proud to have hardworking and generous members of our community."

Council's Australia Day ceremonies will be held at Bute Sporting Club with breakfast from 7.30am and presentations from 8.30am as well as on the Port Broughton foreshore, breakfast from 8am, presentations at 9.30am, Fly By Fun Caricaturists at 11am and Fly By Fun Kids Magic Show at noon.

As a result, the fundraiser has received the annual Bute and surrounds Event of the Year award.

Bute and surrounds Event of the Year

The X-Man Big Bash Fundraiser has received much-deserved honours after raising more than $50,000 for Ronald McDonald House and REDS4VEDS.

The cricket fundraiser event was held in honour of Bute 12-year-old Xavier Cock, who has been battling with Vascular Ehlers-Danlos syndrome early in 2021.

Two twenty20 cricket matches were contested by junior and senior cricketers from Bute and Hummocks, the former hometown of Xavier's mother Krystal.

More than 500 of Xavier's friends, family members and supporters attended the event, which included an aeroplane stunt show, live music and raffles, led by organising committee Emily Wandel and Bridget Guthberg, Hummocks, as well as Ian Taylor, Bute.

Xavier watched the matches from his hospital bed via a commentated live stream and was given the responsibility of selecting best players.

*Australia Day
A time to celebrate our great nation*

Authorised by Rowan Ramsey MP, Liberal Party of Australia, 43 Taylor Street, Kadina SA 5554

THE annual Copper Coast Australia Day Celebrations have been moved from the Wallaroo Town Hall to Victoria Square, Kadina, from 9am on Wednesday, January 26.

Due to the current Covid-19 protocols there will be no breakfast provided by the Apex Club of Kadina.

Copper Coast Council mayor Roslyn Talbot said it was still important to celebrate all that was good about Australia.

"It is a great opportunity to acknowledge the First Nations people, award winners and new citizens," Mrs Talbot said.

"The Kadina Wallaroo Moonta Band will be playing and we ask people bring a picnic rug or chairs and spread out to celebrate the morning.

"Even though this year's Australia Day will be a bit different we still think it's important to celebrate."

More details regarding the event will be provided on Copper Coast Council's Facebook page throughout the week.

Citizen of the Year

Paul Thomas AM, of Wallaroo, is the 2022 Copper Coast Council Citizen of the Year.

Paul has been a member of the Rotary Club of Northern Yorke Peninsula for the past 36 years and has held various roles, including president and board member and is currently a member of Rotary District 9500 Executive and District Governor Elect.

For more than 25 years, Paul has been involved with the Northern Yorke Private Hospital and has been actively part of the Board of Management of the Northern YP Health Service.

He has promoted the community as part of the Kernewek Lowender organising committee and has been a delegate to committees and boards including The Farm Shed and Museum and Tourism Centre, YP Tourism and Regional Development Australia.

Paul frequently acts as master of ceremonies and has been heavily involved in local government as an elected member for 28 years and mayor for 18 years.

"Paul has been passionate about promoting and developing the Copper Coast in so many ways," his nominator said.

"Throughout his adult life, with the support of his wife Kathryn, Paul has been actively involved in many facets of community life and has led by example of active and good citizenship.

"He has presided over extensive and significant transformation of the Copper Coast as a destination, business centre, sporting centre and cultural development.

"He was widely recognised as an outstanding community leader in his role as mayor and dedicated his time to the role.

"Paul developed significant relationships with South Australian Government and various Governors of South Australia enhancing the profile of our community."

Paul has received many accolades for his dedication to the community including a Paul Harris Fellowship by the Ashikaga East Rotary Club, Japan, and subsequently honoured by NYP Rotary with a Sapphire pin for his extensive service.

Paul was awarded a Centenary Medal by the Australian Government for his contribution to Australian society and community in its first 100 years and made a Member of the Order of Australia (AM) in 2017.

Paul is a Bard of the Cornish Gorsedh and was made a life member of the Kernewek Lowender in 2013.

In 2014, Paul received the Harry Dowling Statewide Award at the Yorke Peninsula Tourism Awards.

"Paul has received the recognition as set out above and we believed it was time he received recognition in his local community as Citizen of the Year," the nominator said.

Young Achiever of the Year

Copper Coast Council's Young Achiever of the Year is Moonta's Will Drogemuller.

Will has been recognised for his contribution to the community through his volunteer work and schooling success.

He has held leadership roles at Moonta Area School including school captain and house sporting captain, as well as being a member of the student voice executive.

Outside of school he is a swim instructor at the Copper Coast Sport and Leisure Centre, Kadina, and with the school Learn to Swim program; he also has a coaching role through basketball.

Will has been involved in the Rural Youth Ambassador program for the past two years and is a member of the Moonta Area School Governing Council.

"Will is an engaging, personable, young man who is highly popular, admired and respected among his peers and school staff," his nominee said.

"He has amazing potential and, more importantly, the drive, determination and work ethic to succeed."

Community Event of the Year

The 2021 Kadina Show has been awarded the Copper Coast Council Community Event of the Year.

The 2021 show included a significant number of new attractions that drew a crowd of more than 4000 people — double the amount of the previous event.

"The Kadina Show committee made the decision to push on and hold the 2021 show despite the cancellation of other country shows and the additional workload that would come with needing to meet the Covid-19 requirements," the nominator said.

"The committee was able to create a joyful, family-friendly event that gave the community something to look forward to and then a great day of fun and happiness.

"The committee put in hours of time and effort to improve the facility to allow them to expand and put on a better show for the community."

The 2021 Kadina Show brought together many different community groups and local businesses who worked together.

"The show gave many struggling businesses the opportunity to attend an event and sell their products, for which they are very grateful," the nominator said.

Australia Day on Yorke Peninsula

Yorke Peninsula Council award nominees

WHILE Yorke Peninsula Council was forced to cancel its Australia Day event, it is still planning to celebrate local achievements.

Council is recognising the impact of residents in the Citizen of the Year, Young Citizen of the Year and Community Event of the Year Awards as well as the Award for Active Citizenship.

Citizen of the Year nominees

Neville Atkinson

Neville, or "Rossco" as he is known, has been a strong contributor to the Artherton community for the past 45 years. His efforts have only increased over time, and include roles with the local council, sporting clubs and other community organisations and a variety of capacities.

Kevin Betterman

Kevin is the driving force behind the Ardrossan Community and Men's Shed. He successfully applied for numerous grants to establish the facility and purchase equipment, and even organises an annual health check-up for members. Kevin is also heavily involved with Tidy Towns, Meals on Wheels, and much more.

Tessa Colliver

Tessa has selflessly chosen to use her lived experience as a driving force for improving the lives of others by establishing and leading SOS Yorke, a local group dedicated to suicide prevention and improving mental health. Through this role, she has organised multiple projects and events which have made a real difference.

Katie Hughes

Katie is the Chaplain at St Columba's School, Yorketown, and now also works at the SYP Community Hub. She has become a go-to person for accessing grants, organising events and attracting guest speakers for important presentations. Her work has inspired many others to step up and apply for grants for community projects.

Phil Pearson

Phil has donated his landscaping expertise, machinery, money and countless hours to help beautify Yorketown. He has worked with Yorketown Progress Association to tidy and landscape areas including Weaners Flat Reserve, the local playground and roadsides, and he's already eyeing his next projects.

Young Citizen of the Year

Madeleine Germein

Madeleine is a registered nurse and local business owner. If that didn't keep her busy enough, "Madds" has run a donation drive for Rural and Remote Mental Health Service in Glenside, Adelaide, creating and delivering personal care packs tailored to the ages and genders of recipients. Through this, she raised significant awareness of the service.

Stacey Searle

The reigning Young Citizen of the Year has continued her work in mental health awareness and suicide prevention, leading to another nomination. Stacey has become the ambassador for SOS Yorke, participated in another Ski For Life, and spoken and performed at Adelaide Oval for South Australia's Biggest Mentally Healthy Business Breakfast.

Community Event of the Year

Artherton Pop Up Markets

The Artherton Pop Up Markets bring together a wide range of local small businesses, entertainers and community members at the town sporting complex. The markets showcase small business owners, provide a day out for the wider community, and have been described as "an incredible community event."

Edithburgh parkrun

Edithburgh parkrun is organised by dedicated volunteers, and has brought the community together for socialising, exercising, and personal goals. The event has also had economic benefits, as many participants have travelled to the town to participate, including some who have stayed at the local caravan park.

PepperTree Market

The PepperTree Market at Minlaton held two events in 2021 along with the usual monthly market. The Show You Have When You're Not Having a Show, October 9, involved horse riding, a jumping castle, vintage car show, raffles and stalls. It brought the community together and raised money for the Minlaton heritage show building.

Family Fun Day, Yorketown

The 2019 Yorketown fire, followed by Covid-19, meant many families had not had a chance to connect as they usually would. The Family Fun Day aspired to connect these families and provide a space for support, featuring music, face painting, art, a CFS display, bags of local goodies and much more.

Award for Active Citizenship

Debbie Schwartz

Debbie has taught music and singing across Yorke Peninsula, leading to the formation of bands and choirs and ultimately promoting well-being. As music is overshadowed in school curriculums, Debbie has worked hard to ensure local students can still access the subject and stimulate their inner creativity.

Yvonne Hill

Yvonne has given a lifetime of service to the Price community. She has cooked, served and cleaned at the community club for more than 15 years, and singlehandedly cooks 60-odd meals for Price church nights. In addition to serving on numerous committees, she volunteered at Ardrossan Hospital, giving Dinham Wing residents manicures every fortnight for 28 years.

Water safety a family affair

Patrick Goldsmith
REPORT BY

IF you’ve learned to swim at Wallaroo during the past 60 years, there’s a chance a member of the McIntosh family has been involved.

Ann and brother Rodger began teaching in the early 1960s.

Since then, three generations of McIntoshs have been involved in water safety education.

At this summer’s VACSWIM program, Ann was joined by granddaughters Constance, Fenella and Arabella.

For Ann, it was a passion sparked by both a love for the Wallaroo Swimming Club and for teaching kids.

“It’s always been rewarding teaching children to swim, because you pick up a love of seeing them achieve and maybe conquer a fear they had,” she said.

“I had a little girl come up to me last week to say thank you and she added, ‘my grandma told me you taught her to swim’, and I thought oh God, well yes, I probably did.

“It was sweet, but also made me think.”

When Ann was a student participating in swimming lessons at Wallaroo, between 500 and 600 kids from all around would come.

“We were always a strong club at Wallaroo,” she said.

“And that’s why we enjoyed coming, plus the fact it was a great place to meet people and there were always great teachers.”

She remembers the time they had to draw on the kindness of local fishermen, after an unfortunate accident on the jetty.

“There was a huge hole in the middle of the jetty at the time which meant you couldn’t get from land out to the end where our platform was,” she said.

“So in order to get out there, we had to load everyone into a dinghy some local fishermen let us use.”

No one has drawn on her wisdom quite like her granddaughter Constance, who was this year’s instructor in charge of VACSWIM Wallaroo.

Constance said the connection the family had built with the program was “pretty special”.

“I don’t think many sites can say they’ve had a family (involved) for quite that long,” she said.

“I think it’s just great to see the site flourish but also having such great instructors come through has been really great to see.

Putting the family connection aside, Constance got involved for a similar reason to Ann.

“I learned to swim through these programs and I’ve always had a love for the water,” she said.

“I was looking for something to do in my holidays while at university, and I also just have a passion for young ones.”

“ I had a little girl come up to me last week to say thank you and she added, ‘my grandma told me you taught her to swim’... ”
- Ann McIntosh

THROUGH THE AGES... Fenella, Ann, Constance and Arabella McIntosh formed this summer’s Wallaroo VACSWIM instructor team. The McIntosh family has been teaching swimming to Copper Coast locals – and tourists – for 60 years.

Kathy getting the chop for charity

Jack Clark
REPORT BY

GULF FM radio announcer Kathy McDonald is shaving her head as part of the World's Greatest Shave later this month.

Kathy, of Kadina, will lose her locks at a "bingo and shave" event at the YP Veterans and Community Centre, Kadina, on Friday, January 28.

"I was due for a haircut, and was looking to donate too so why not do it at the same time?" she said.

"It was a spur of the moment decision but I'm glad to be participating in such a great cause."

Kathy's daughter Louise participated in the event in 1997 and inspired Kathy to follow in her footsteps.

"She (Louise) participated in the Colour for Cure event when she was at school for her friend who was battling leukaemia, so it's a bit of added motivation," Kathy said.

"When you shave, cut, or colour your hair, you will provide precious relief to those who need it most."

As well as raising funds for the Leukemia Foundation, Kathy will donate her hair to create wigs.

Already, she has surpassed her initial fundraising goal of $1000 and is aiming for $2000.

"The support I've received has been heartwarming, and it's great to see everyone donate to a cause which has a special place in my heart," she said.

Doors to Kathy's fundraising day will open at 12.30pm with proceedings to start at 1pm.

Entry cost is a donation at the door; any bingo cards purchased ($5 for two games) also go towards the fundraiser.

Undercover game cards, lucky numbers and drinks will also be available.

To donate, visit <https://secure.leukaemiafoundation.org.au/registrator/FundraisingPage.aspx?RegistrationID=843034> or call 0484 264 999.

Sarah's platform for parents

Sonny Coombs
JOURNALIST

SARAH Pridham, of Kadina, has launched a platform to help those who have experienced the loss of a baby during pregnancy or early infancy.

She has launched health and wellness website Forever Young to provide people with mental and physical health, wellbeing and self-care services.

In 2017, Sarah and her husband experienced the loss of their son Jasper.

"Not long after the loss of Jasper I quickly realised I wanted to continue to carry on his memory by creating a legacy in his honour."

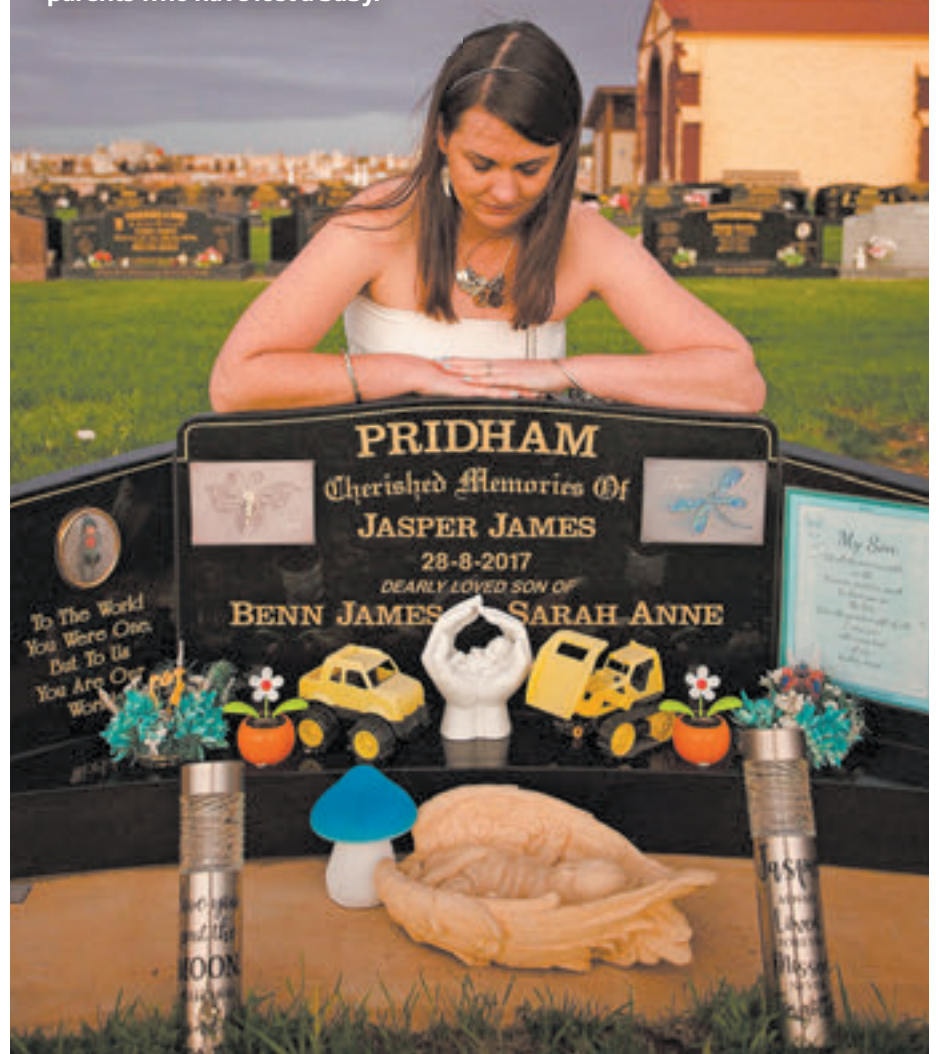

"At 27 years old I never expected to have to finance our son's burial, funeral service, wake and all the other costs associated with his final farewell."

Sarah said, when you go through something so traumatic, people generally don't think about the positive wellness and self-care they need.

"This platform has a list of businesses Australia-wide that specialise in massage, yoga, meditation, acupuncture, counselling, reiki, crystal healing, salt therapy and float therapy as well as accommodation listings so you can get away for a while," she said.

"The listed businesses are offering bereaved parents a special discounted offer through the Forever Young website so they can continue to provide themselves with self-care and mental wellness during their journey of life after loss.

"The website also offers keepsake items, memorial items, resource books and even a custom-made Forever Young Healing candle."

The platform offers complimentary keepsake boxes and support and information packs via email request.

"I am continually seeking businesses to be added to the platform as well as volunteers to assist me with growing and marketing the platform," she said.

Vehicle club's first life members awarded

NORTHERN Automotive Restoration Club's first life memberships were presented during its annual presentation lunch at the Crystal Brook RSL Hall on Sunday, December 5.

Covering the Mid North and northern Yorke Peninsula, the club was inaugurated in 1974.

Patron and inaugural president Ivan Venning presented the life memberships to Pat Fiedler, Graham Goode and Merv Robinson.

Pat Fiedler, of Kadina, joined the club and became its secretary in 1991, holding the position until 2015 (a total 24 years); as such, she helped organise many events, working alongside 12 presidents.

Graham Goode, Clare, was an early member and has served as president (four years), treasurer (seven years), rally director (three years) and is currently a vehicle inspector (18 years); with help from wife Rosemary, he was also club newsletter editor (13 years).

A foundation member, Merv Robinson, Jamestown, has been president and secretary

(two years each), a rally director and, assisted by wife Aileen, the Con-Rod editor (six years); he is the current treasurer (28 years) and a vehicle inspector (18 years).

The club has been busy lately with more than 40 members enjoying a run to view the Broughton Plains Heritage Society's old farm machinery restoration work and collections at Wandearah on November 7.

Next stop was the Stories from the Road Museum at Port Pirie where hosts Liz Martin and David Kent provided a barbecue lunch and members wandered through their sheds admiring all sorts of collections, buses and trucks.

A few days later, Port Broughton identity Allan Ebsary spoke about his online business Farm Clearing Sales during the monthly meeting at the Port Broughton Golf Club.

NARC members are looking forward to catching up again in 2022, starting with their annual tea and Blyth Cinema visit in January.

Wallaroo Lions Club turns 50

WALLAROO Lions Club celebrated its 50th anniversary with a dinner party at its clubrooms in December.

The club's charter was registered on December 16, 1971, and a delicious three-course meal, catered by local Samantha Taylor and her Mumma Sam's crew, marked the anniversary.

Special guests included the last of the club's charter members Mick Mellow and wife Kay, Wallaroo railway platform heritage mural artist Julie Cheshire, and Alison Sullivan, widow of the late John Sullivan.

The Sullivans were the heart and soul of the club for many decades.

Also attending were Copper Coast Council mayor Roslyn Talbot and Member for Narungga Fraser Ellis, who unveiled the club's new honour board.

Merv Birbeck talked about the club's history, and emcee, current president Peter Hatcher welcomed all and read congratulatory wishes from other clubs and past members.

Ros Northey, of Moonta, provided a scrumptious birthday cake, which was cut by Joy Rayner, widow of former club member and Melvin Jones Fellowship recipient, the late Ian Rayner.

The fellowship is Lions International's highest form of recognition and embodies humanitarian ideas consistent with the organisation's purpose.

Peter thanked all who attended, those who organised, the caterers, and those who helped make the evening a great success, with a special thanks to long-standing member Irene de la Haye for the enormous effort she put in organising this event.

To find out more about joining the Wallaroo Lions Club, contact Greg Mackrill on 0433 291 211.

PARTNERS... Yorke Peninsula Coaches director Lindsay Allen and Community Care and Transport CEO David McDonald celebrate the organisations' new partnership.

Cars and coaches combine

COMMUNITY Care and Transport has secured a partnership with Yorke Peninsula Coaches.

The YP Coaches logo will soon appear on the rear of each Community Care and Transport vehicle as part of the deal, which will extend until at least June 2023.

YP Coaches has been operating on the peninsula for 45 years and has always been a strong supporter of the community.

"I am fully aware of the important role (local not-for-profit) Community Care and Transport plays in the community as they already perform the administrative role for the brokering of the Health and Community buses on behalf of YP Coaches," YP Coaches director Lindsay Allen said.

"YP Coaches is excited to be part of this new partnership, particularly because the funds involved will go straight back to Community Care and Transport to help them to meet both the current and future needs of the community for those in need."

Community Care and Transport CEO David McDonald said he was exceptionally pleased to be partnering with YP Coaches.

"I felt there was already a strong relationship between the two organisations along with many existing synergies," he said.

"This is a tremendous boost to our operations and the funds involved in the partnership deal will aid us immensely to fulfil some of the funding gaps we currently have.

"We cannot thank Lindsay and YP Coaches enough for their generosity and foresight in working with us now and into the future in this new mutually beneficial partnership.

"This will help to ensure we continue to be care in motion."

Local author, Steven Streeter, chalks up his first two novels

STEVEN Streeter, from Yorke Peninsula, has had two books — both set in South Australia — published.

The first is Under Ground, released by Black Hare Press, a horror-fantasy novella for young adults (ages 12 and up).

It is the story of Shawn and Madison who try to rescue their friends from the denizens of an outback underground cave system.

"While written as a young adult book, adults have also enjoyed this brief tale," Steven said.

"Under Ground is available through amazon.com.au and blackharepress.com."

The second is a short novel, Patch of Green, published by Little Demon Books in the US.

"An adult horror, Patch of Green can best be described as Day of the Triffids meets Amityville Horror," Steven said.

"It will be released on January 19, available through Amazon and other online retailers."

New to the publication game, Steven has already signed several contracts with publishers.

"I've had a dozen short stories published and there are a number more waiting for publication," he said.

He also has a few books coming out over the next two years, including Invasive Species in June.

"Invasive Species is my first big novel and it is set in and around Ardrossan.

"I just finished a book for National Novel Writing Month, where you have the month of November to write the first draft of a 50,000 word novel.

"I managed to get 95,000 words done and Black Hare Press has already asked to look at it, despite it not being edited, so that's a positive.

"This one isn't set in Australia, it's a fantasy on another planet."

Maitland boost for SACWA baby parcels

SOUTH Australian Country Women's Association, Maitland branch held its Christmas luncheon at the Hotel Maitland.

Julie Bailey and Dianne Hart spoke about the SACWA baby parcel project.

These parcels are distributed to new mums who need assistance through social workers in hospitals all over the state.

The parcels are partially funded by the SACWA Emergency Fund (for the purchase of baby clothes) and partly by beautiful handmade garments, rugs and toys, supplied through the generosity of SACWA members and others.

Julie and Dianne had brought along a packed baby parcel to show their typical contents, which may include all-in-one suits, singlets, towels, soft toys and blankets, amongst other items.

Members, visitors and friends gave $150 toward 32 baby parcels already packed and in hand at the SACWA state office.

Those present had a lovely lunch with lot of laughter and friendship.

BACK TO SCHOOL

Returning to school in 2022

SCHOOL will be back in 2022, albeit a little differently for many students across the peninsula.

The term was initially expected to start on January 31 but has been bumped back to minimise the Covid-19 impact.

Teachers and school staff will use January 31 and February 1 as additional planning days to get ready with students in preschool, reception and years 1, 7, 8 and 12 back in class on Wednesday, February 2.

Other year levels will begin learning from home from Wednesday, February 2 and will be back in the classroom on Monday, February 14.

Children of essential workers and vulnerable students will be able to return to school from January 31.

Supporting children

The changes and uncertainty caused by Covid-19 can be challenging for some children, especially around school closures and restrictions.

Some children will return to school having experienced some level of stress, anxiety, isolation and grief while some may have experienced increased violence at home.

UNICEF has created a list of ways teachers can support children in the transition back to learning.

"In addition to continuing to use the different skills teachers have been using to ensure their students' learning and emotional wellbeing while schools were closed, the following suggestions might be helpful when schools reopen," a spokesperson said.

"It is essential to listen to students' concerns and demonstrate understanding as well as empathy.

"Offer your students the opportunity to have a one-to-one conversation with you to reconnect and discuss any concerns that might have arisen when their school was closed.

"Before teaching new academic content to students, teachers and school personnel should take time to check how children are doing.

"Remember children may have difficulty concentrating at first or may need more time to get back into the routine of learning.

"Provide opportunities for children to take breaks, move around, and reconnect with their friends and peers."

Provide accurate and age-appropriate information about Covid-19 but be sure to remind students of the precautions and plans put in place to prevent the spread.

"Engage children in making the classroom a welcoming, safe and comfortable space," the spokesperson said.

"Children can provide suggestions; help decorate the walls of the classroom with colourful and welcoming messages and work in small groups so they can support each other to catch up on learning.

"Let them know that being supportive of each other will help them get through this together.

"Teaching can be an extremely stressful profession, particularly now, so make sure to protect your own physical and mental health (e.g. maintain healthy eating and sleeping habits, rest, exercise, connect with friends, family, colleagues).

"Remember to seek support if you notice yourself experiencing significant feelings of distress."

New challenges now await

THEY'VE just conquered year 12, but a new group of future professionals must now tackle a monumental lifestyle switch.

More than 16,000 students have been offered a place at one of Adelaide's universities following the two main offer rounds on Tuesday, December 21 and Friday, January 14.

Growing up regionally and choosing tertiary study means throwing yourself into the deep end and learning a new life in the city.

Former Minlaton District School student Lachlan Coombe will be studying a Bachelor of Economics with a Bachelor of Finance at the University of Adelaide this year.

"The closer it's approaching, the more I'm starting to look forward to university," he said.

Lachlan will be living at Lincoln College in North Adelaide and is looking forward to the experience.

"I hope to gain many new friendships throughout my time in Adelaide and at university," Lachlan said.

"Staying at Lincoln will be different but it should help me grow as a person.

"I also hope to gain all sorts of new experiences during my college stay and in Adelaide, getting out of my comfort zone."

His classmate Amelia Rothe will also be moving to Adelaide, studying a Bachelor of Nursing at the University of Adelaide.

"Moving away from home has been a long time coming for me; I have been thinking about it since year 8," she said.

"I will miss Minlaton and the community but I'm also excited to begin my life as an independent adult.

"I'm excited to go to university and study subjects I am interested in and passionate about.

"Nursing is a very hands-on degree, which is different from the learning I was used to at school and something I am very excited for."

Tertiary study options are also opening up within the region through the UniHub Spencer Gulf.

"Any students of any university can come and register with us, use the centre, the free Wi-Fi and get support, whether they're just on holidays or learning online," UniHub Spencer Gulf CEO Anita Kuss said.

"But we do partner with some universities to offer complete courses which can be studied from our centres."

Students can study the first two years of an engineering degree, a Bachelor of Nursing, Education, Business, Accounting, Social Work or Health Sciences at Kadina.

"UniHub gives students the opportunity to study without the financial burden or hassle of moving to Adelaide," Anita said.

NEW CHALLENGE... Minlaton's Lachlan Coombe conquered year 12 in 2021 but must now face the challenge of moving to Adelaide for university in 2022.

Opportunities created at university centre

Advertising Promotion

YORKE Peninsula residents have had the opportunity to study closer to home, thanks to the Copper Coast University Centre and Uni Hub Spencer Gulf.

A wide range of locally supported degrees is available through the Uni Hub's university partners, CQ University, Flinders University and University of Adelaide. These degrees are in the fields of health and community support, engineering, education and business management.

Students studying one of these supported degrees can access a wide range of academic and course support.

"The Uni Hub helps students every step of the way for these supported degrees — from the enrolment process with the universities and orientation week, through to ongoing support throughout their studies with face-to-face mentoring, tutorials and industry placements," campus coordinator Sue Barry said.

"It means students don't have to go it alone."

In addition, any student studying at an Australian university can access the Copper Coast University Centre, free of charge.

The centre, in the Kadina library, is accessible to any tertiary enrolled student from 6am to midnight, seven days a week.

"We give students the space to study in peace, without the interruptions they may face in a home environment," Sue said.

The centre was established by the Copper Coast Council through the federal government's Regional University Centre Program.

DIRECTION... The Copper Coast University Centre is helping local students achieve their academic goals while staying on Yorke Peninsula.

Healthy lunchbox tips

COMING UP with unique and healthy lunchboxes for children can be difficult.

But SA Health is encouraging students and parents to think about what is going into their boxes this term.

"Eating a healthy lunch can help maintain your energy levels at work, school or study and often the best healthy lunches are the ones you pack at home," a SA Health spokesperson said.

"Packing a healthy lunch is also a great way to boost the number of recommended daily serves of the food groups you need every day for good health and it can also save you money.

"Include something from each of the five food groups — grain, fruit, vegetables, lean meats and milks — and pack a plain water to drink.

"You should also limit discretionary foods like cakes, lollies, sweet biscuits and chips."

Getting the kids involved in packing the lunches is also sure to mean they're likely to eat it, while keeping it simple and sticking to whole, fresh foods are the best options for kids.

Try not to pack the same things every day and this is where letting the kids help pack can come in handy.

Most importantly, pack your lunchboxes the night before which will keep your mornings free for other jobs.

"Our 24/7 access proved exceptionally popular with our members, especially during times when Covid restrictions limited our ability to offer classes," Alichia said.

"These restrictions have continued into 2022, with the current requirements including limits, again, of one person per seven square metres.

This again limits our ability to offer classes and during these times we've introduced virtual sign ups."

The virtual sign ups are an incredibly quick and simple way to join SYP Fitness — all you need is your phone.

Sports grants a hit for clubs

Fin Hansen
REPORT BY

Several sporting organisations are set to benefit from a state government funding boost.

Bute Sporting Clubs, Port Broughton Combined Sporting Club, Alford Tennis Club, Maitland Golf Club and the SSAA SA Moonta branch have won grants through the Community Recreation and Sports Facilities Program.

Planning for the Barunga West Council projects began last year when council started working with local progress associations and state sporting bodies to apply for court resurfacing.

About $56,700 was received for the Bute project, $38,800 at Port Broughton and $21,900 at Alford which will be matched by council.

Mayor Leonie Kerley said upgraded court surfaces would likely be a hit with locals.

Council also applied for funding to resurface facilities at Mundoora and Thomas Plains, but was unsuccessful.

"It is disappointing Mundoora and Thomas Plains applications were not successful, but we will try again as soon as grant funding is available each year," Kerley said.

Local clubs have agreed to contribute poles, nets, backboards and fencing towards the projects.

Netball, Tennis and Basketball SA have also agreed to provide advice regarding the management of projects.

BWC CEO Maree Wauchope said council received seven quotes for the works and will work with clubs to appoint the best contractor, with the projects to be completed this year.

"The challenge for council will be to find a time when contractors are free and the courts are not being used," Wauchope said.

"A condition of the grant funding is that works need to start in the next six months."

Member for Narungga Fraser Ellis said it was wonderful to see the region well represented in the state program.

"The upgrades will provide a tangible benefit to our community and I look forward to seeing the projects come to life," Ellis said.

Golf, shooting clubs set for big upgrades

Maitland Golf Club is set for an upgraded irrigation system with the help of a $26,000 state grant.

President Paul Jarrett said the funding was welcomed after multiple applications were knocked back.

"Our current irrigation system was installed more than 25 years ago and we are well overdue for a new one," Jarrett said.

"We've been having quality issues with calcium in our water so we needed to address it."

Jarrett said the upgrade would be of benefit to the whole community.

"Lots of people use the walking trail around the course so it should benefit the whole town," he said.

"The course basically wraps around Maitland, so it helps to keep the town looking green."

"We should be able to upgrade the quality of all 18 holes and even out the playing surface."

"I think we'll start works after the opening (seasonal) rains this year — we will meet at the start of February to discuss contractors."

"I thank Golf SA, club secretary Andy Hollams for applying for the grant, and the state government for awarding the funding."

Sporting Shooters Association SA Moonta branch received $50,000 through the grant program to construct a new clubhouse including all-access amenities.

Together with an additional $38,000 from SSAA and $10,000 from the recently folded Moonta Dart Club, the facilities are set to be worth almost $100,000.

President Paul Zadow said the club has been able to refine its applications after about three years of trying to secure funding.

"(The funding) will allow us to complete a full clubhouse with a kitchen, toilets and shower, allowing us to hold interclub and state shooting titles," Zadow said.

"We haven't been able to use our previous clubhouse for about two years, so this will be a huge upgrade."

Zadow said it was important socialising remained a big part of the sport.

"We have a diverse group of members who wouldn't usually come together, but we all share a common interest," he said.

"I'm hoping the facilities will draw people in and build on our camaraderie."

"We have full council approval (for the clubhouse) and we're hoping to finalise local contractors soon."

"Once that's completed we'll start construction straight away and hopefully have it ready to go by Christmas this year."

SPORTING BOOST... Barunga West Council mayor Leonie Kerley is looking forward to seeing three local sporting clubs receive court resurfaces. The upgrades will benefit local basketball, netball and tennis players, including Cooper Ferme, Lucas Gulin and Harvey Gulin.

AFLW

Adelaide has started its season in strong style, defeating North Melbourne at Norwood Oval on Sunday for successive home-game wins.

Two goals up at halftime, Adelaide won by 13 points, 5.7 (37) to 3.6 (24).

The Crows' three YP talents all played their roles, without having a telling influence on the contest.

Chelsea Biddell was in defence, finishing with six disposals (three kicks, three handballs).

Hannah Button was quiet, collecting four handballs and laying three tackles.

Button's younger sister Rachelle Martin was the most productive of the trio, securing eight disposals (four kicks, four handballs) and two marks, and laying an impressive team-high six tackles.

Tait Mackrill and her GWS teammates ran into a potent Fremantle, also on Sunday; the match was moved to Whitten Oval, West Footscray, due to state border issues.

GWS dominated the first quarter before Fremantle took control of the match, winning 7.10 (52) to 2.8 (20).

Markrill was a solid contributor with eight disposals (four kicks, four handballs) and a mark.

WNBL

Steph Talbot and her Adelaide Lightning teammates, currently sitting on top of the ladder, are looking to restart their season against the Melbourne Boomers at Selkirk Stadium, Wendouree, Victoria, tomorrow, Wednesday, January 19.

Lightning's revised schedule includes home games against Southside Flyers on Sunday, January 23, and University of Canberra Capitals on Sunday, January 30.

Big Bash League Men

A couple of wins in a row have pushed Adelaide Strikers back into contention for a top-five berth.

In Brisbane on Wednesday, January 12, Thomas Kelly made an impressive 24 at the back end of the innings, facing just 16 deliveries and dispatching a six and a boundary against the Heat.

Fox Sport commentators gave him a vote in the Player of the BBL award, behind leg spinner Rashid Khan, who took six wickets in the 71-run win.

In the Strikers' unusually scheduled Friday morning match, Kelly also finished the innings, ensuring another strong win, remaining 14 not out (nine balls, one 4, one 6), as they defeated Perth Scorchers by six wickets with 18 balls remaining at Adelaide Oval.

Kelly made five in the Strikers' 23-run win against the Melbourne Stars on Saturday morning, also at Adelaide Oval.

SACA men first grade

In an important round eight fixture at Henley Memorial Oval, the West Torrens Eagles engineered a 22-run win against another expected contender, Glenelg Seahorses on January 15.

Medium-fast bowlers James Reuther and Murphy Short each collected a wicket, finishing with 1/40 and 1/41 respectively from their full 10-over allotments.

Callum Agnew was dismissed for three in his debut first grade game, while Short made nine and Reuther finished with 12.

The Eagles are just outside the top four with four wins, two losses and a draw.

SACA women first grade

Bat dominated against ball in the round two West Torrens versus Sturt clash.

Sturt batted first at Henley Oval, making a hefty 4/293; in reply West Torrens was 7/222.

Mackenzie McCauley collected 0/26 with the ball and didn't get a bat.

SACA men twenty20

In a low-scoring twenty20 match, Eagles defeated Northern Districts Jets by 28 runs on Tuesday evening, January 11.

Batting first, West Torrens struggled to 9/130. Left-hander Short batted well in the middle order, making 27 runs from 29 balls faced in 42 minutes, dispatching a pair of boundaries.

Agnew made a handy cameo of 13 from 12 deliveries in 21 minutes with two fours.

Short added to his batting effort with 1/18 at the bowling crease, and took a brilliant catch in the outfield.

SACA men second grade

Glenelg bundled out West Torrens for 70 in the one-day game on Saturday; Lachlan Pointon was Eagles' second top scorer on 13.

Seahorses won the game by seven wickets in just 17.1 overs. Pointon bowled 4.1 overs and finished with 0/15.

SACA MEN TWENTY20... West Torrens teammates, Callum Agnew, Murphy Short and Lachlan Pointon, all from Yorke Peninsula.

BBL MEN... Thomas Kelly and the Adelaide Strikers were back on the winners' list in the Big Bash League Men.

SACA MEN TWENTY20... Murphy Short, West Torrens, watches where the ball will travel as he decides whether or not to run.

SACA MEN TWENTY20... Lachlan Pointon bats for West Torrens in the T20 against Northern Districts.

World records for Hugo Taheny

Patrick Goldsmith

REPORT BY

Point Turton's Hugo Taheny continues to smash glass ceilings.

In the past four months the man they call "Hugo Rockstar" has become a dual world record holder, despite increasing concerns about Covid-19.

In early November, Taheny set a new discus world record for athletes living with Down Syndrome, throwing 31.33 metres.

The throw — which was a personal best by 1.22m — elevated Taheny to the number one spot in the International Association for Athletes with Down Syndrome ranking.

Taheny was back to breaking records this year, heading to Adelaide on Saturday, January 15.

This time he broke the world record for shot-put, throwing 11.20m — a personal best by 59cm.

The trip was also the first time Taheny had left the family property since before Christmas, a devastating but important measure according to mum Louise.

Taheny, 20, had severe reactions to both doses of his Covid-19 vaccinations — including an eight-day stay in hospital following the second — and is ineligible for a booster shot.

"It's beginning to get really difficult to manage, we have had to cancel his 21st birthday party which was a milestone he was very excited about," Louise said.

"People don't really understand, because he's always been really popular when we go walking down the street, but now someone comes up to say hello and he'll just put his hand

Voice echoing in the chambers

Hugo Taheny has also been making a difference outside the athletics world.

A speech Taheny wrote was read aloud in federal parliament by South Australian Senator Rex Patrick as a part of Youth Voice in Parliament Week in October.

"My vision for Australia in 20 years would be a more inclusive life for everyone," the speech read.

"I hope people of all abilities, cultures, communities, and backgrounds would be working together in a more friendly way to enjoy the beautiful land that we live on.

"I would like people to include me, to talk to me and to help me and my friends contribute positively to make our society a better place."

The week provided an opportunity for anyone under 21 to have a 90-second speech read aloud in parliament.

Senator Patrick said it was an honour to read Hugo's speech.

"I chose Hugo's speech because it was an important and sincere message the Australian Parliament and the public needed to hear," he said.

"I'm grateful to Raise Our Voice Australia for creating this opportunity to read Hugo's words and I was honoured to deliver them in the Senate and enshrine them in the Parliament's permanent record of speeches, the Hansard.

"Hugo's vision of inclusivity and embracing diversity in Australia is a really important one.

"In the hustle and bustle of day-to-day Parliamentary work, his words served as a well-timed reminder of matters which all parliamentarians should be thinking about and working towards."

up, perhaps startling them, but he knows to stay socially distant."

Despite the concerns, Taheny is continuing to thrive.

In the past week he received confirmation of his winning gold medals in para discus and para shot-put and a silver in para javelin at the Oceania Virtual Championships where over 400 athletes uploaded their results across two months.

Hugo said he dreams of representing Australia at the Paralympics.

"I hope that I can continue to be a positive role model and advocate for athletes living with Down Syndrome and other disabilities," he said.

"I like to help other people; recently I have been coaching a couple of younger athletes in discus throwing and they both won gold medals in their interschool competitions.

"I am really excited about the prospect of representing my country again and making my family and friends proud."

Footy trainers have never been more valuable

Fin Hansen

REPORT BY

With winter sporting competitions fast approaching, many local clubs have been left scraping for volunteers once again.

A shortage of qualified trainers has led to significant struggles for football and netball clubs, including at Kadina and Wallaroo where they have limited personnel.

Wallaroo stalwart Geoff "Joffa" Jarman has been helping out around WFC for more than 35 years and continues to pick up odd jobs when required.

Jarman, 69, mainly assists as a trainer, but can also be seen organising water bottles for all teams on Saturdays and helping the juniors develop skills at trainings.

"Some of my jobs include sanitising and filling up water bottles, cleaning changerooms and helping kids with skills like kicking and leading patterns," Jarman said.

"I really enjoy seeing the development of our kids, some of whom had fathers I coached too."

A talented junior footballer, Jarman captained Central District to an SANFL under 19 premiership in 1970, before winning another flag with Central's reserves the following year.

He went on to play 19 league games for CDFC including a win where he gathered 29 disposals whilst standing Port Adelaide legend Russell Ebert.

Jarman took on a role as playing coach of Wallaroo in 1985 and won a club best and fairest as a 35 year old, before an Achilles injury ended his career.

Ever since, Jarman has worked tirelessly around the club, earning him Yorke Peninsula Country Times Club

Person of the Year honours in 2019.

He has widely been commended as one of few Adelaide-based players to cement themselves at the club after retiring.

"Sticking around has been very rewarding — I've been around footy for 60 years so it's all I really know," Jarman said.

Henderson's dedication to the Bloodhounds

Long-time Kadina Football Club trainer Ian Henderson said he has strapped more joints than his players have had kicks.

Henderson, 67, accumulated ample experience as a trainer at clubs including Central District, South Augusta, Roxby Districts and East Fremantle in the WAFL, before making Kadina his home in 2004.

He assumed the role of head trainer in 2006 and still enjoys learning about new medical ideas and practices.

"I've enjoyed helping players through rehab and trying to work through niggles they pick up," he said.

"Some of the worst injuries I've seen include a dislocated hip — which the surgeon said was equivalent to major road traffic trauma, a snapped tibia, fibula and dislocated ankle at the same time, and an open finger dislocation where the bone was poking right out of the skin."

For the majority of his career, Henderson has remained a South Australian Sports Medicine Association level 2 qualified trainer which has required first aid training every year.

He is also the Yorke Peninsula assessment trainer and is qualified to tick off aspiring trainers hoping to volunteer at their local clubs.

COMMITMENT... Yorke Peninsula Football League trainers Ian Henderson, Kadina, and Geoff "Joffa" Jarman, Wallaroo, are planning to resume their duties in the 2022 football season. The pair have worked tirelessly for years and are looking forward to seeing the next generation of local football volunteers stepping up.

Henderson's years of dedicated service earned him YPCT Club Person of the Year honours in 2006 and even an invitation to the Brownlow Medal in 2009.

"I attended the Brownlow after party and watched Brendon Fevola (jokingly) attack Chris Judd," he said.

"I actually strapped Juddy's shoulder in the U19 Teal Cup in Victoria when I flew over to help out as an East Fremantle trainer."

Henderson said he has loved seeing his former U10s players grow into senior footballers.

"Last year we had about five players from our (2019-20) senior colts premiership go up and play A grade which was great to see," he said.

"Being YPFL head trainer for the past five years has been a highlight because I've been able to watch the best of the best A graders and U17s represent our league.

"Trainers have lots of transferable skills which can help people to not panic when you see someone go down and to help injury prevention.

"The social side is also really rewarding — you're right in the action on the boundary line and the only non-player or coach allowed in the changerooms."

Henderson said most trainers go unpaid but are usually the most qualified people at local footy clubs.

"Trainers are in such short supply nowadays that they've never been more important to clubs," he said.

Learning experience for under 12s

Peter Argent
REPORT BY

Yorke Peninsula gained plenty of experience at the SACA Under 12 Junior Boys Carnival last week. The carnival was hosted in the Hills and Fleurieu district across four days, Monday to Friday, January 10 to 14.

YP played eventual grand finalist South East in match one and fielded first.

Stansbury's Xander Leong was the 10th bowler used in the match and the most successful, collecting 2/5 from his single over.

Opener Novak Duka, Bute, (1/14 from four overs), fellow Rooster Oscar Cock (1/3 from two overs), Maitland's Oakley Schulz (1/23 from two overs) and Will Miller, Minlaton, (1/6 from two overs) each claimed a scalp as well.

In the modest run chase of 41, no batsman made it to double figures.

The rounds two and three games were reduced to 20 overs due to the hot weather.

On Tuesday, Yorke Peninsula batted first against Eyre Peninsula and made a competitive total of 3/79.

15. Angus Coote chimed in with 13 not out.

Max Simmons was the pick of the bowlers in this contest with two wickets, while Cock (1/4 from two overs) and Anthony Marchetto, Moonta (1/7 from 1.1 overs), claimed a victim.

Upper North made a competitive 8/120 in Wednesday's match with Meyers (2/9 from three overs) and Declan McCauley (2/25 from three) the only multiple wicket takers.

Only Minlaton's Josh Cook got to double figures (11 retired) as the YP lads struggled to 7/54 from 20 overs.

YP's final match was against Para Districts on Thursday, making 8/92 from 30 overs.

Meyers top scored with 36 and Miller, opening the batting, made 17.

Para Districts chased down this total in 26.4 overs, losing four wickets. Cock was again effective with the ball, securing 2/12 from his five frugal overs.

Clifford collected 1/9 from two overs and Simmons effected a run out.

Carnival winner was Adelaide Turf.

SACA UNDER 14... Riley Miller dispatches a delivery.

Peter Argent
REPORT BY

Yorke Peninsula went without a win in three conference matches during the SACA Under 14 Junior Boys Carnival, played January 10 to 14.

The side rebounded strongly in the crossover match against Para Districts, with an undefeated 48 from Cooper McNerney and 43 from George Butler setting up YP.

YP recorded a total of 8/165, with McNerney smashing five boundaries and a six in his entertaining 40-ball, 45-minute stay at the crease.

Charlie Kakoschke also chimed in for a handy 19.

The side bowled Para District out for just 76, enjoying an 89-run victory.

Harry Rennie and Riley Miller each took 1/9 from three overs with the ball, while Paskeville's Ed James secured 1/21 from six overs and James Cook 1/12 from four overs.

Kadina's Angus Petherick claimed two middle order wickets at a cost of three runs and also effected a run out of a Para Districts opener.

Gus Hall took the final three wickets of the match, finishing with the amazing analysis of 3/1 from 1.3 overs, including a maiden.

In the opening contest against Upper North, Kakoschke top scored with 20 and Rennie made 15, while Petherick made 12 not out as YP scrambled to 9/93 from 40 overs.

Kakoschke (1/19 from five overs) took the only wicket as Upper North made the required runs in 29 overs.

Yorke Peninsula batted first in its second match against South East, making 5/80.

Miller top scored with 28 before being run out while fellow opener Henry Coote made 19 in a 36-run opening partnership.

The strong South East side made the runs in 13 overs for the loss of one wicket.

YP batted first again on Wednesday and recorded a modest total of 8/58.

Only Butler (10), Rennie (10) and Cook (15) got to double figures.

Opening bowler Joseph Honner, of Warooka, collected a wicket, finishing with 1/12 from his three overs, including a pair of maidens.

The other wicket fell to Miller, caught and bowled.

Carnival winner was Adelaide Turf.

SACA UNDER 14... George Butler was a highly competitive run maker.

Agnew makes the grade

Peter Argent
REPORT BY

Callum Agnew has now made his SACA first grade debut, despite a couple of false starts.

The Eastern District export was expected to debut for West Torrens against the Northern Districts at Salisbury earlier this month but the game was cancelled due to a wet pitch.

Agnew finally got his opportunity against Glenelg at Henley on Saturday, January 15.

Teammate Patrick Fisher presented Agnew with WTCC first grade cap 563 during the pre-game warm ups.

Senior coach Mark Harrity said Agnew had worked hard and was highly deserving of the opportunity.

“This chance has come on the back of consistent form in the seconds and a couple of good efforts in the twenty20 competition,” Harrity said.

“Callum had come through the Eagles junior program and made his way through the grades at the club.

Agnew has played Ray Sutton Shield, Under 14s Red, Under 16s Red, C grade, B grade, twenty20 and now first grade cricket with West Torrens.

“This is a huge honour for me,” Agnew said.

“To think this time last season I was playing in the C grade and now have my first grade cap is pretty special.

“Back then this wasn’t even a part of my thought processes.

“With this win against Glenelg, and a pair of T20 victories, I’ve now played in three wins with these boys.

“Patrick, along with being a teammate was my under 16s coach at the Eagles, adding more to the significance of my cap presentation.

“Being involved at the club means a lot, it’s a big part of my life and I have fostered a lot of friendships over my time here.

“At Eastern District, I played both junior and senior colts and a season of seniors cricket for the club, I reckon it was back in 2013-14.

“I finished the season (after finals) as the leading wicket taker.”

Agnew is now one of three cricketers from Eastern District to have played first grade for West Torrens in recent times, joining Murphy Short and Lachlan Pointon.

SACA FIRST GRADE... Callum Agnew received his West Torrens first grade cap by teammate and former coach Patrick Fisher.

Harris reflects on state captaincy

Peter Argent
REPORT BY

This month marks 25 years since lower Yorke Peninsula export Daniel “Doc” Harris captained the state under 17 side.

The national championships ran from January 6 to 17 and were held in Brisbane with Harris joined by fellow future first-class cricketers Ben Cameron, Andrew Crook and Paul Rolfe.

Harris’s deputy was triple Bradman Medallist and current Adelaide Strikers/Scorpions coach Luke Williams while former Adelaide Crow Ken McGregor was a top order batsman and Norwood champion Scott Borlace also featured.

“I reckon I went away on four underage national championships trips,” Harris said.

“At that tournament we finished mid-table.

“What I do remember is we really needed a win against Northern Territory and I needed some runs.

“I nicked one to second slip and I was waiting for the umpire to give me out, and much to my amazement he didn’t put his finger up.

“The next year we won the under 19s national championship in Melbourne.

“I have a vivid memory of beating the Queenslanders at the MCG and using the Australian dressing room.”

Harris toured England with the Australian under 19 side just two years later.

“I was batting alongside Michael Clarke and Adam Voges, with a young quick Mitchell Johnson sending them down,” he said.

“That was among the most exciting seven and half weeks of my life.

“Along with my dad, I had excellent junior coaches like Don Snook and Graham Gutsche who were strong early influences on me in my junior cricket.”

Harris made his first-class debut in 1999-2000 and played 58 first class matches for the Redbacks, captaining his state six times while also becoming a practising medical practitioner.

He took some time to cement his place in the Sheffield Shield side, but made 3329 first class runs, predominately batting at the top of the order, at a respectable average of 31.11.

Harris produced five first class hundreds with a top score of 166, and a further 21 half-centuries.

He played in 49 one-day fixtures including the Redbacks’ last title in 2011-12.

“On reflection I would have liked to have been involved in a more successful era at the Redbacks,” Harris said.

“Across my time, I think our highest finish in the Sheffield Shield was third and we never played in a final.”

Harris developed into a strong performer of the twenty20 game during the early years of the format.

In the 2010-11 KFC Twenty20 Big Bash knockout competition,

Harris was the competition’s leading run scorer, with 304 at an average 60.80 and a strike rate of 138.81.

South Australia, with international players Kieron Pollard and Adil Rashid, defeated NSW in the final by eight wickets the same year.

The T20 format took Harris to New Zealand, Sri Lanka and to the Deccan Chargers in the Indian Premier League.

Harris played for Woodville in SACA’s A grade (now first grade) competition and helped the side win its first flag in 30 years in 2007-08.

He claimed the David Hookes Medal the next year when the Peckers went back-to-back.

Harris missed the final in 2011-12 because of his IPL commitments, but was a key member of the side.

For the lad who started his cricket at Sunbury, everything has turned full circle as Harris is coaching his son Matthew in under 12s at the Walkerville Cats.

Saturday competition

DIVISION I
Moonta hosted Wallaroo White; the visitors would not have expected to lose by 21 shots and to only have one team up. Moonta's Don Bennett, Sharon Cavanagh, Kevin Sorrell and Andrew Pearson had the biggest win 33-16. Wallaroo White's loss meant Kadina climbed to second on the ladder and Wallaroo White dropped into third. It will be interesting this week when Wallaroo White plays at home against Kadina; which will be in second spot afterwards?
Kadina should regain Bruce Hines but who stands down after its big win last week? Derrick Bushell, Roger Spry, Graham Wilson and Wendy Venning helped set up Kadina's big win against Port Broughton.
Arthurton is undoubtedly the most improved side this season and at present is fourth; it had a good win at Maitland on Saturday.
Wallaroo Blue was far too strong at home for Paskeville.
Bute, which is only out of the four by one point, defeated Ardrossan by seven shots; both sides had two teams up.
It appears Ardrossan will miss out on the four this season.

DIVISION II
Arthurton could make it into the four in its first year of playing in division II; it is level with fourth-placed Kadina on points but a smidge behind on score difference and percentage.
Both had wins on Saturday.
The closest game in this division was Port Broughton versus Wallaroo Blue, the visitors winning by two shots and one rink was drawn.
Wallaroo Mines returned to the winners' list and Moonta Blue was too strong for Alford.

DIVISION III
The three Moonta sides hold first, second and third on the ladder and Wallaroo has the next two spots.
The three Moonta sides all had wins on Saturday and Maitland defeated Ardrossan White.
Results 15-1-22

DIVISION III

Moonta White 75 (12) (M Meyers 18, R Walker 31, P Jowett 26) d Wallaroo Blue 46 (0) (L Pratt 16, B Taylor 20, T DePledge 10).
This week
DIVISION I
The game of the round will undoubtedly be Wallaroo White versus Kadina. After its loss to Moonta on Saturday, Wallaroo White will want this one badly and I can see them having hours of practice.
Wallaroo has the home-green advantage and I never pick against Wallaroo at home; however, Kadina is second and will want to keep the double chance. What a game this will be and one worth watching.
Paskeville hosts Moonta but that is where it will stop. Moonta wants to keep on winning.

Maitland travels to Port Broughton and its trip home could be long.
Can Ardrossan have a win at home against Wallaroo Blue? Ardrossan must soon get back onto the winners' list.
Arthurton plays at home against Bute; this will probably sort out which should hold fourth. I think Arthurton at home.
DIVISION II
Moonta Red should be able to stay on top of the ladder when it hosts Port Broughton.
Paskeville travels to Ardrossan; Paskeville get close but not just close enough. This should be a tight match.
Kadina plays Wallaroo Blue at Wallaroo in game likely to be a toss-up; Wallaroo Blue at home.
Moonta Blue should manage a win against a visiting Wallaroo Mines side.
Arthurton, at home, will want to defeat Alford to help its quest for fourth.
DIVISION III
Kadina will receive a forfeit.
The local derby at Moonta between Blue and White could go either way.
Wallaroo Blue, at home, should defeat Ardrossan White.
Can Maitland win at home against Wallaroo White?

Thursday competition

DIVISION I GREEN
After its loss last Thursday to Maitland, Port Broughton is just hanging onto fourth.
Kadina/Mines must have been pleased with its win against Moonta Blue, putting it comfortably in third at this stage.
Wallaroo, playing at home, was too good for Ardrossan, which is fifth and will need more wins if it hopes to make the four; Wallaroo is second and looks likely to finish the minor rounds there.
As has been usual for several seasons, it appears the top two will again be Moonta Red and Wallaroo.
Having had only the one loss, Moonta Red is top of the ladder; last week, it travelled to Bute and had a good win.
DIVISION I GOLD
The competition between Arthurton and Paskeville for top spot on the ladder is heating up.
Paskeville holds first by a narrow margin but, with its bye this week, Arthurton should depose it.
After forfeiting to Moonta the week before, Alford played at Alford last week, winning by eight shots with three teams up.
Arthurton travelled to play Kadina/Mines and had an 18-shot win.

NYPBA SATURDAY DIV I... Skipper Barry Gent, Port Broughton, shows where he wants the next bowl to come against Kadina.

Paskeville played at home and had a win against Ardrossan.
Results 13-1-22
DIVISION I GREEN
Moonta Red 96 (14) (C Eichenberger 29, J Andrew 18, M Chandler 22, S Cavanagh 27) d Bute 54 (2) (E Sluggett 13, J Hewett 20, R Taylor 14, A Davidson 7).
Kadina/Mines 88 (14) (J Spry 27, A Rule 15, C Fiskin 19, W Venning 27) d Moonta Blue 60 (2) (J Emmerton 10, A Waters 13, S Rost 23, J Gibb 14).
Maitland 90 (14) (J Davies 16, R Cameron 19, B Downs 30, J Prosser 25) d Port Broughton 55 (2) (D Dennis 17, H Thornton 15, R Evers 11, E Dolling 12).
Wallaroo 92 (14) (D Milner 28, A Robinson 23, M Brandt 17, K Frick 24) d Ardrossan 52 (2) (A Rowntree 8, C Simmons 13, P McCarthy 18, P Coombe 13).

DIVISION I GOLD
Paskeville 87 (14) (D Hill 19, J Philbey 19, J Bussenschutt 34, J Hill 15) d Ardrossan 65 (2) (C Voysey 28, B Meredith 14, K Bradtke 10, D Anderson 13).
Arthurton 74 (14) (A Gersch 15, J Bagshaw 20, A Adams 20, S Young 22) d Kadina/Mines Gold 56 (2) (C Howe 22, H May 10, J May 14, J East 10).
Alford 73 (14) (D Hocking 16, R Pearce 17, D Hockley 20, J Roberts 20) d Moonta 65 (2) (B Williams 14, J Downs 21, M Johnson 11, R Smith 19).
This Thursday
DIVISION I GREEN
The two Moonta sides play one another; Moonta Red is the usual winner, although it is always a closely contested game.
Wallaroo, playing at home, should have a win against Bute.

Kadina/Mines has to be at its best to defeat Maitland, which had a win against Port Broughton last week. Kadina/Mines will be at home.
Ardrossan will be at home but will that be a big enough advantage for them to defeat Port Broughton, which lost last week?
This could be the closest game in this division.
DIVISION I GOLD
Kadina/Mines travels to Ardrossan. This game could go either way but the home side will have the advantage.
After a good win last week, Alford travels to Arthurton. Alford likely won't make it two in a row, Arthurton is a very good side.
Wallaroo is playing at home, which will be the major factor in its game against Moonta.
Paskeville has the bye.

Wednesday competition

Results 12-1-22
Kadina 62 (8) (C March 19, G Wilson 16, B Penhall 27) d Bute 53 (4) (J Gigger 20, J Trigg 23, G Green 10).
Maitland 65 (10) (B Dyett 12, T Wuttke 31, G Treloar 22) d Moonta Blue 43 (2) (R Wheaton 17, L Smart 11, G Martin 15).

Ardrossan Thursday: What a difference a week makes! Ardrossan Gold had a 45-shot defeat at home against top side Paskeville on January 6, and at Paskeville on January 13 its deficit was reduced to 22 shots; final scores 65-87. Chrissy Voysey sang the praises of teammates Jackie Errington, Keith Stanner and Lyn Rollbusch after the team's 28-19 win; Ardrossan led for the entire game. Denise Anderson, Cheryl Werner, Marlene Houghton and Ray Jackson trailed but fought back strongly to end 13-15. Belinda Meredith, Kath Lea, Mark Quinn and Heather Cowen produced some consistent bowling in a close tussle. Even after the 16th end, Pasky slipped ahead to finish 14-19. The fourth team had a substantial defeat, trying hard but scoring on only seven ends. Ardrossan Green was always going to be tested at Wallaroo, where it lost soundly 52-92. Penny McCarthy, Jenny Adcock, Maxine Stennett and Meg Brown played catch-up until the 17th end when scores levelled at 14 shots each. Wallaroo gained three shots, but Ardrossan hung on to gain the final four shots to win 18-17. The only winning rink for the day, its determination was evident. Charmaine Simmons, Cheryl Rudiger, Irene Greig and Kerrie Aldridge were about to commence their game when Cheryl had to withdraw from the game. Wallaroo offered Jill Sobey to make up the four rather than playing one team member down. Scores were close until midway but Wallaroo managed to pull away to a 23-13 win. Pat Coombe, Rosie Stern, Del Schulz and Trish Burman came within two shots after the 15th end but couldn't hang on, finishing 13-24. It was a day to forget for the remaining visiting side. Although disappointed with its loss, Ardrossan thanks Jill and the Wallaroo side for their good sportsmanship. CS

Ardrossan Saturday: Division I lost to Bute 90-97 on January 15. Best rink C Simmons, R Hill, R Stern and F Rowntree (sk) powered ahead with large scores to supply sufficient buffer against its opponent's comeback, finishing 33-23. After flying to a substantial lead, Ben Rowntree's team tentatively hung on against a powerful comeback with a fortunate final end to finish 23-22. The reverse was played out by J Simmons' rink which was overwhelmed in the first half then came back strongly to threaten in its 17-24 loss. L Rich's team made significant inroads during the second half before falling away to a 17-28 defeat. Div II lost to Wallaroo Mines 80-103. The only winning rink F Paroczy, R Evans, G Cook and P Goudie (sk) shot to an early lead which it ably defended for a 27-15 victory. Locked in a close game, N Marsh's team faltered in the final ends to go down 21-26. After challenging its opponent in the second half, D Johnson's rink fell away for a 20-31 loss. Following a good start, J Burgess's team struggled to score, eventually overcome 12-31. Div III White was overwhelmed by Maitland 39-78. Best rink K Lea, J Anderson, R Jackson and C Voysey (sk) came back midgame but was not able to stave off a 14-23 defeat. D Anderson's team started strongly but then slipped increasingly behind to lose 14-23. Although scoring in nine ends, C Haver's rink fell 9-31 to a stronger team's multiple scores. Div III Blue has been disbanded for the remainder of the season. LBB

John May's team of Jan Spry, Christine Pearce and Don Hendry breast- ed the tape 11 up to be best for the side. First division, using the 1.30pm timeslot, hosted Port Broughton and dominated by 57 shots. Derrick Bushell and team Wendy Venning, Graham Wilson and Roger Spry were the club's top rink, ahead by an astonishing 37 shots. An even better result was all teams winning. # Yorketown Bowling Club carnival

“NN”
REPORT BY

Bowlers from all points in the state and interstate invaded Yorketown Bowling Club for its annual three-day carnival to begin the new year, Sunday to Tuesday, January 9-11.

Despite Covid rearing its ugly head, the greens were full for all three days of pairs fours and skins respectively.

There were very few withdrawals throughout the carnival but these were able to filled at short notice.

Players from Adelaide and country areas commented on the high standard of the greens, looked after by greenkeeper Roy Bullock and his faithful staff of workers. A job well done.

Sunday, the pairs competition opened the carnival; winners were Mike and Lyn Wildash, of Wallaroo.

The weather started to warm up on Monday and the standard of play was set by a team of state players and locals entered by Rob Higgins, of Yorketown, comprising himself, Les Carter, Mal Squires and Chris Broadwood.

Tuesday was a hot one for the skins game, which was played with many a laugh as everyone enjoyed the competition.

Winner was the team comprising Robbie Uffelman, Denis Huston (Yorketown), Bill Bartley (Edithburgh) and Ian Carter (Port Noarlunga).

Bowls life membership for Lyndon

Lyndon Watters was awarded Curramulka Bowling Club life membership during the club's Christmas party on December 16.

Lyndon has belonged to the club for more than 20 years; for 15 of those years he was the club's green keeper, until he relinquished the position last year.

His green-keeping skills are highly respected throughout the SYP association, with many clubs utilising his knowledge for their greens.

Since his retirement as greenkeeper, the club has realised just how much work he did behind the scenes.

He continues to do his little bit here and there, with members going to do a little job only to find Lyndon has already completed the task.

Lyndon's leadership qualities are first class with no fuss; known in the club as a quiet achiever, particularly when playing bowls, he continues urging his team to "come on, there's still time to turn the game around" or "keep concentrating lads as we are in front and should win".

A builder/ceiling fixer by trade, Lyndon now works for the YP Council but still finds time before and after work to do the little jobs that need doing around the club.

Congratulations Lyndon from the association on a well-deserved award.

It was a promising day for a gentle sail for the training crew on Sunday, January 16.

Boats were pulled from the shed and rigged, by the time the boats were on the beach with sails up the gentle breeze turned into a substantial wind.

Not to be put off, the trainees launched their boats and headed off into the bay.

It was capsized drills for Bella Gavorusic in the Lazer, assisted by club commodore Peter Elverd.

Two pacers were on the water as was as a sabre, practising gybing and tacking skills.

One of the pacers capsized but was righted by its crew who decided it was time to call it a day.

Again, sail trainees proved they are a very plucky group.

Afternoon sailing was very light on, two tasars and the wind-rush catamaran went out in the strong winds (about 19 knots).

The catamaran capsized and withdrew, followed by one of the

Genetic discovery improves wheat breeding

AUSTRALIAN and European researchers have discovered a genetic element in a common wheat pathogen which has the potential to streamline breeding of disease-resistant wheat.

Researchers from the Centre for Crop and Disease Management along with collaborators from CSIRO, the Max Planck Institute of Germany and the University of Neuchâtel of Switzerland, discovered a variable genetic element within the fungal pathogen causing Septoria nodorum blotch.

The team found this element has the ability to control the production of Tox1 — a toxic molecule produced after infection and is responsible for major damage to sensitive wheat varieties.

The element varies in the amount of Tox1 production in pathogen strains from different regions, helping breeders prioritise which gene to remove according to the environment they are targeting.

CCDM researcher and recent PhD graduate Dr Evan John said the Australian version of the wheat pathogen produced much higher levels of Tox1 than most other fungal strains collected from the Northern Hemisphere.

“After noticing the variation of Tox1, I collected data on the pathogen’s genome from fungal samples collected from different countries to work out why this was happening,” Dr John said.

“I was then able to pinpoint and characterise the genetic element that allowed the pathogen to produce high levels of Tox1.

“This was widespread in Australian fungal strains of the disease but at low level in most US and European strains.

“We’ve been able to show the pathogen has evolved to Australian conditions and can strongly recommend the removal of the Tox1 susceptible wheat gene called Snn1 from Australian breeding lines, to breed resistant wheat suited to local regions.”

CCDM project leader Dr Kar-Chun Tan said the finding explains the extreme difficulty of breeding disease resistant wheat.

“The discovery of the genetic element helps to explain the huge variability in toxic molecule production that exists out in the field,” Dr Tan said.

“While it is difficult to account for the variability in the breeding program, the good news is we can now monitor the genetic element that causes the variability and see how it changes over time and in different regions of Australia.

“The monitoring will allow us to advise breeders and pathologists on the best and most genetically relevant SNB isolates to use for screening their wheat lines for SNB resistance.”

NEW APPROACH... Centre for Crop Disease Management researchers Dr Evan John and Dr Kar-Chun Tan have discovered a new approach to breeding wheat for improved disease resistance relative to its environment.

Starscopes

♈ ARIES—March 21-April 20

Leadership skills are at your peak and your gift of the gab wins enthusiastic and influential admirers. A friend may indulge in petty arguments but the situation is strictly temporary.

♉ TAURUS—April 21-May 22

A domestic situation becomes more complicated, then eases up. It's a weekend for visitors - they arrive all weekend long. Some plans you are making could be delayed. An older relative shows a more generous side.

♊ GEMINI—May 23-June 21

Your influence is strong in areas where it matters. A companion shows a gentler side and is more receptive to your suggestions. Facts you have been waiting for arrive by the weekend.

♊ CANCER—June 22-July 22

Avoid hasty decisions, especially if making a major purchase. A clash with relatives could be avoided, thanks to diplomacy on your part. You are more creative than organized this week.

♊ LEO—July 23-August 22

Thursday - Friday may find you in a battle of wits. The week offers a new opportunity for friendship or romance. A freedom loving friend becomes a little less independent.

♊ VIRGO—August 23-September 22

Much activity is happening behind the scenes as people in high places observe your manner and your abilities. Work hard to avoid missing deadlines. Children offer bright suggestions.

♊ LIBRA—September 23-October 22

Love ones are hard to contact or hard to please - but you are preoccupied with career and/or academic activities. Travel planning is accented. There may be a small windfall later in the week.

♊ SCORPIO—October 23-November 21

Relationships with colleagues improve noticeably and romance takes a turn in a happier direction. An older relative is easy to please. Legal matters are spotlighted after the weekend.

♊ SAGITTARIUS—November 22-December 22

Creativity could lead to profit by the end of this week. Your patience may be stretched at work when a colleague appoints himself your critic. A personal project gets the green light

♊ CAPRICORN—December 23-January 20

Details are of the utmost importance. Be especially careful if filling out forms or signing on the dotted lines. A romantic relationship becomes more carefree. Friends are outspoken but earnest.

♊ AQUARIUS—January 21-February 19

An outspoken colleague becomes an important ally. Unconventional suggestions win the ear of an important person. A romantic partner may be a bit frivolous for your liking.

♊ PISCES—February 20-March 20

Travel ideas benefit from a discussion with a professional in the field. Your self-confidence soars, but a self-indulgent streak may surface. This is a good week for looking at taking courses in the arts.

BIRTHDAY THIS WEEK

You adore the finer things in life and you are a born romantic. You tend to be gullible too, which could prove to be a weakness in the coming months. Superb business opportunities may present themselves, but you must be able to identify the truly realistic ones.

Kareem Abdul Jabbar: Minority of One

IF you were a fan of the Chicago Bulls documentary The Last Dance, I've got a treat for you.

Many think of Kareem Abdul-Jabbar as that tall basketball player who fought Bruce Lee in Game of Death, but his documentary is a tell-all tale about his life on and off the court.

The 90-minute HBO special from 2015 delves into the man who was always rather prickly with the media.

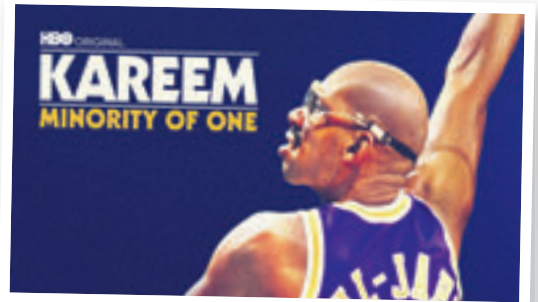

Every key moment of his career is captured, his comical height advantage and immense stardom at an early age; even the development of his signature skyhook.

The documentary reveals his outspoken feelings about race and politics, and the evolution of the game.

Abdul-Jabbar was traded to the Los Angeles Lakers in 1974 and they became one of the most famous and glamorous teams in NBA history.

To give you an insight on how dominant Abdul-Jabbar was, the NCAA introduced rules to reduce his impact, including banning dunking for several years.

Abdul-Jabbar finished his career as the leading point scorer in NBA history, a record six-time Most Valuable Player, a record 19-time All-Star, a 15-time All-NBA selection, and an 11-time All-Defensive Team member.

If that's not enough to outline the great player he was, I'm not sure what is.

Although the documentary does a great job reflecting on his career, his life pre basketball and post retirement is barely touched on.

Watching this documentary really made me appreciate the person Kareem Abdul-Jabbar is, on and off the court, cementing himself as one of the greatest to play the game.

HOT FISHING TIPS

with Greg James www.gregjamesfishing.com.au

Welcome to the column with all the hot tips for fishing around Yorke Peninsula; contact Greg by email at greg@gregjamesfishing.com.au.

Wallaroo: There are two grain ships waiting offshore so anglers can expect access to only the shallow end of the jetty in coming days. A few squid and just-legal blue crabs have been the main reports. Boat crews are chasing King George whiting in the early mornings south of Bird Reef, and gar and squid from Point Riley. Local beaches are worth a try for yellowfin whiting.

Moonta Bay/Port Hughes: Crews reported good catches of KG whiting, gar and squid in recent days from as far afield as West Light, Steamer channel and Warburto Point. Jetty and shore-based anglers tested their skills for yellowfin whiting, squid and garfish.

Balgowan/Port Victoria: KG whiting have been the go-to species again for locals and visitors when the persistent on-shore southerlies allowed a launch, especially from the problematic ramp at Balgowan. Big squid are also a feature off Wardang Island for those fishing early mornings in the clear weather.

Point Turton: On-water marine conditions were just superb when I cruised through last Friday morning, almost balmy, as boat crews impatiently launched for KG whiting, squid and garfish. High tide produced yellowfin whiting from The Pines, gar at Port Rickaby and large snook at Corny Point.

Marion Bay/Stenhouse Bay: Big squid have again been reported from the Stenhouse Bay jetty during the week. The on-shore winds are driving anglers nuts (me included) but there have been occasions in the early mornings at Marion Bay when crews managed a quick fish for flathead, big squid, red nannygai and snook in close to shore. Gym Beach is worth a try for salmon just under a kilo.

Edithburgh: Snook, blueys and squid were caught out from Klein Point and Coobowie over the weekend. The jetty has tommy ruff (Australian herring), while off-shore crews caught whiting and flathead from Tapley Shoals.

Stansbury/Port Vincent: Medium-sized blueys are off the broken grounds adjacent to the town's foreshore caravan park. A few gar are north out from Port Vincent and yellowfin whiting are schooling in and around those small bays at The Hut and old oyster reefs. The Orontes Bank has legal KG whiting at first light.

Ardrossan: Quite a few blue crab rakers have been sighted at locations north and south of Ardrossan in recent days. Blueys are also at the main jetty, while boat crews have managed gar, squid and blueys from Gus Shoal.

Tight lines and see you next week!

SPORT SHUT DOWN

REPORT BY

Southern Yorke Peninsula Bowling and Basketball Associations are the latest sports to be hit by Covid-19 cancellations.

The bowling association has cancelled all pennant competitions until the end of January while the basketball association has withdrawn teams from the SA Country Championships and called off matches on Friday, January 14.

Bowling association chairperson Leith Daniell said the decision was made in response to the gradual increase in case numbers.

"We kept an eye on the numbers in the YP Council area, and have had at least five clubs with people in isolation — not necessarily with Covid, just as close contacts," Daniell said.

"So the executive decided to close down competition until February."

Bowls SA introduced a Covid-19 vaccination policy on January 10, a move welcomed by both local associations.

It is hoped the SYP association can pick up at least one Saturday; however, occasions such as a state event the week before Easter, will make it difficult, according to Daniell.

No points will be awarded for any cancelled matches.

"We'll consult with clubs when we know more, which will hopefully be early next week," Daniell said.

"We have a duty of care to the members and to the association to keep people safe."

Basketball league administrator Lindsay McCulloch said a decision would be made on Wednesday or Thursday as to whether games would be played this week.

"We have some young adults concerned about taking Covid home to their young children who are unable to be vaccinated," McCulloch said.

"We will award draws for all matches missed until it returns to competition."

Yorke Valley Basketball Association also cancelled its matches last week. The league has urged all clubs to prepare for round 13 as normal, but its executive is set to make a firm decision on Thursday, January 20.

"We understand some clubs are concerned and some are keen to play, but deciding on Thursday will give them all time to decide their positions," president Trevor Talbot said.

All matches missed across round 12 have been deemed draws.
