Yorke Peninsula's Copper Coast is an ideal location to visit if you are looking for relaxation, beautiful white sandy and safe swimming beaches, a good fishing or diving spot, or a glimpse back into the heyday of our state's copper mining days.

With a population of over 15,000 people, the Copper Coast comprises the main towns of Kadina, Moonta, Moonta Bay, Port Hughes and Wallaroo, and is just a 150 kilometre, 90 minute drive from Adelaide.

It is an ideal destination for day trips, short or long stays with many attractions, accommodation and dining options.

The home of the Nharangga people, the region's prosperity is attributed to the wealth of the land which now lends itself to a rich agricultural sector.

The area is named Copper Coast in recognition of the region's copper mining heritage.

The first copper was discovered at Wallaroo Mines (Kadina) and Cornish miners and Welsh smelters soon made their home in Australia's Little Cornwall. The importance of the Moonta Mines area is recognised with National Heritage site status.

Great weather, beaches, fabulous fishing and all amenities, including upgraded boat ramps, make this a special place to visit and live. Vibrant commercial and retail opportunities exist to support the local community and those visiting the area. Enjoy a traditional Cornish pasty, coffee and cake or a meal at one of the many cafes, bakeries, pubs or restaurants. A wide variety of accommodation options make the Copper Coast an ideal place to visit and stay.

Milestone celebration for Cornish Festival

For 50 years, the Copper Coast has been celebrating its heritage through the Kernewek Lowender.

Plans are well underway for the 26th event, to be held May 15-21.

The week-long festival is held every two years and attracts enthusiastic crowds for events of all sizes, from the iconic Maypole and furry dances to fairs, street parties, Cornish pasty making and a cavalcade of classic cars and motorcycles.

The Copper Coast's proud association with Cornish culture can be traced back to the mining days of the mid-to-late 1800s.

Miners and their families travelled from Cornwall, as well as Wales and elsewhere, to work in the local mines. In doing so, they became important settlers in the region, and the knowledge they brought with them from the copper mines of Cornwall was pivotal to the success of local operations.

When a group of locals decided to acknowledge that history by holding the first Kernewek Lowender in 1973, they could only have hoped the festival would remain so popular half a century later.

The history of the festival will be front of mind, with organisers planning an exciting program.

"Not only will it include our major events from past festivals but also some heritage events we're bringing back to the 2023 festival to celebrate this fact," Kernewek Lowender president Lynn Spurling said.

"A cookbook of traditional Cornish recipes is being put together and we are reintroducing the medallion which was always a popular souvenir of the festival.

"Our success since the festival's inception in 1973 is the support and involvement of the community and we will be engaging with everyone again to deliver a bigger and better event in 2023."

Streets across the Copper Coast will be brightened by new banners, bunting and flags, while Sounds at the Oval at Moonta oval will feature performances by Adelaide band The Borderers.

Gabriella Jackman and Dianne McDowell will return to festival organisation as finance and administration officers.

"Of course, we have a wonderful committee who are working very hard to make this a special event," Lynn said.

Field Days here again

Increased freedoms and confidence in travel are set to benefit the 2023 Yorke Peninsula Field Days.

The three-day biennial event normally attracts up to 30,000 visitors but numbers were restricted in 2021 due to Covid-19.

YP Field Days CEO Peter Anderson said signs were already pointing a return to form for the event, to be held September 26-29, 2023.

"Site bookings will open in March but we've already had a bunch of enquiries," he said.

"It's going to be a very exciting year for us."

Fun can be had by people of all ages and abilities across the YP Field Days' 30 hectare Paskeville site.

Not only will visitors find extensive displays of the latest agricultural machinery and equipment, technology, information and services, the event also features guest speakers, fashion parades, and a variety of food and refreshment options.

The event program includes working sheepdogs, wool and sheep displays, quality crafts and general interest products and services.

A fun trail, plus interactive and educational activities, will also be available to keep kids entertained for hours.

"We really think it's going to be a big event this year," Mr Anderson said.

"We were slowed down by Covid and we were still quite successful, but I expect there to be a lot of interstate exhibitors who will be back."

As well as planning a full program, organisers are working on creating a phone app to make navigating the site easier.

"We're also hopeful that we will have a new structure in place, which will become an office and conference centre (after the office burned down in 2019)," Mr Anderson said.

"It's going to make things easier for our committee in the lead up and during the field days, but there's also the potential for general use by the public."

Yorke Peninsula Country Times returns as the major sponsor for the event.

"We are thrilled about this continued partnership and look forward to supporting this important community event," managing director Michael Ellis said.

Site application information is available via www.yppfielddays.com.au.

Art of the Copper Coast

As Copper Coast's public art installations continue to build, visitors and locals can easily spend the day exploring them.

Copper Coast Council has developed art trail brochures for each of the three main towns, which are now available through the visitor information centre or online at <https://visitcoppercoast.com.au/arts-and-culture>.

"These trails identify public art pieces and enable everyone to discover and appreciate our talented local artists," Copper Coast Council tourism coordinator Lynn Spurling said.

"The art trails offer the opportunity to experience a wide range of art by our talented local artists and artisans."

As you walk through Kadina, keep an eye out for fairy doors and a photo board in Victoria Square as well as murals in Graves, Hallett and Goyder Streets.

The town centre also features a huge painting on the old water tower, a nod to the region's copper mining and Cornish past, plus several galleries to explore.

Moonta boasts several photo boards, memorial trails, cultural artworks, historical murals and sculptures, including of local icon and founder of the RAAF Sir Richard Williams.

Wallaroo's works also lend an insight into the history of the town, with the community getting involved with works at Wallaroo Primary School a highlight.

The theme of the Wallaroo silo light show is updated every three months, giving everyone something interesting to see.

These are just a few of the opportunities to enjoy public art on the Copper Coast, which also has several indoor art spaces well worth visiting.

Tips for finding fish at Copper Coast's hotspots

A huge drawcard for visitors to Yorke Peninsula's Copper Coast is its fishing opportunities.

From beaches and jetties to rocky breaks and boat fishing, there is something for everyone.

But local fishing expert Greg James said it is important to be prepared before heading out.

"One of the most important rules when fishing is to use fresh bait," he said.

"Most bait is frozen, so it is important the freeze has only been once.

"Australian herring love gents, small cockles and fish flesh, garfish enjoy gents and small cockles/pipis while King George whiting will go for softened squid, cockles/pipis and clickers.

"Yellowfin whiting can be caught using bloodworms, cockles/pipis and clickers, and squid are catchable on jigs or by using a small whole fish or a peeled potato on a jig!"

In terms of reeling in your next catch, blue swimmer crabs can be found at all three town jetties, Myponie Point, Wallaroo Bay, Warburto Point, West Light, Cape Elizabeth.

"The Wallaroo jetty is great for Australian herring and Point Riley, Bird Reef, Moonta Bay and Tipara Reef are perfect spots for garfish," Mr James said.

"King George whiting can be found at West Light, Port Hughes, Boiler Ground (Wallaroo), Cape Elizabeth.

"Yellowfin whiting are often at Coopers Beach, Tickera and Port Hughes while squid are common at Point Riley, Port Hughes and Wallaroo jetties."

If you need an extra hand, don't forget to call into one of the great tackle shops on the Copper Coast.

At the end of the day, you can wash your boat down at the Wallaroo and Port Hughes boat ramps and, if the fish aren't biting, there are several seafood wholesalers who can help you reel in the one that got away.

Boating safety

Every boat operator has a duty of care for their own safety, the vessel, and the safety of people who may be affected by their actions.

Boat speed limits are in place where high-speed boats may be a hazard to other water users.

A four-knot speed restriction applies to vessels within 50 metres of a person in the water, a vessel or buoy displaying a flag indicating a diver, a person in a canoe, kayak, or similar small unpowered recreational vessel, within 30m of any other vessel, within marinas, mooring areas or jetties.

Boat safety also includes carrying additional safety equipment based on the type of vessel, the area of operation, expected water and weather conditions and personal requirements of each passenger.

Lifejackets are important whether you're in a boat, jet ski or even a kayak.

The lifejacket you need — as well as when it must be worn — depends on the vessel, your age, location and the conditions.

Masters of sport on show

It's a busy year on the Copper Coast, with the 2023 SA Masters Games returning April 20-23.

The region broke records in 2021, with 1651 registered participants across 30 sports.

"We were incredibly keen to host again because of how well the event went last time, and we're so glad to have been successful," Copper Coast Council library and tourism coordinator Lynn Spurling said.

"Planning is well underway to offer even more sports to attract even more participants.

"The Copper Coast has exceptional sporting facilities and strong community/club support which makes this all possible.

Council was selected from a competitive pool of regions to host the event, with the Copper Coast Sport and Leisure Centre, Kadina, again acting as the Games Hub with sports to be played across the major towns.

Key sports include sailing, motocross, football, tennis and many more.

"The economic impact study from the previous event showed significant visitor spend benefited not only local businesses and operators but also sporting clubs and associations," Mrs Spurling said.

"Many of the participants travelled to the Copper Coast with supporting friends and family who took the opportunity to experience all that Yorke Peninsula's Copper Coast has to offer.

"Already, we're receiving plenty of feedback from local clubs who are keen to be involved again.

"These events could not happen without the efforts of volunteers who are acknowledged as another key to our success."

Honouring history

Moonta Mines is one of Australia's most important industrial and cultural heritage sites.

Combining with Burra to be the Australian Cornish Mining Sites, it was placed on the National Heritage Places list in 2017.

At one stage more than 6000 people lived and worked on the mine site, one of the most profitable copper mines in the world.

Mining in the region stopped in 1923 and much of the infrastructure was removed, leaving behind a fragmented legacy of an enterprise which once led the world in mining technology.

"The miners who worked the copper ore body mostly came from Cornwall in England and brought with them hard rock mining techniques developed over centuries in the tin and copper mines there, as well as a rich and distinctive culture," National Trust SA CEO Dr Darren Peacock said.

"So dominant were the Cornish migrants to Moonta and so strong in shaping the culture of the area that the town became known as Australia's Little Cornwall."

The National Trust has cared for much of the site since 1964.

Former enginehouses, the old school, the tourist train and old lolly shop feature heavily in Moonta Mines' layout.

The school was built for 800 children and now houses tales of the mine and Cornish culture.

Copper Coast Council has commissioned a conservation management plan for the heritage sites, receiving $4.8 million from the federal government to progress plans.

The Moonta Mines National Heritage Precinct steering group is working through priorities for the area, with work beginning in 2022.

Conservation of Hughes and Richmans Enginehouses has been critical to the future of the plans, as the group seeks to present the stories of the past in a new way.

In 2023, a range of new visitor facilities will be established, including accessible walking and cycling trails to encourage people to explore the Moonta Mines site.

Heritage exploration

The Copper Coast's heritage is deeply intervoven with its Cornish mining past. Historical locations throughout the region have been lovingly preserved and are a must-see when visiting.

Wallaroo Mines

Copper was first discovered by shepherd James Boor on the pastoral lease of Walter Watson Hughes and his brother-in-law John Duncan. The mineral was found almost 10 kilometres southwest of the sheep run station called Wallaroo on December 17, 1859.

Boor discovered green-coloured stones, which had likely been unearthed by a wombat. He pocketed them and forgot about them for a few days before informing Duncan of his find.

Hughes then secured mineral leases, which he named the Wallaroo Mine after his sheep station. He hired four Burra miners and started mining at Home Shaft in February 1860. By the middle of the year, 150 miners were employed and the Wallaroo Mining Company was formed.

By the mid-1860s, the mine was producing 26,000 ton of ore and, at its zenith between 1870 and 1875, it employed 1000 men and boys.

Moonta Mines

Moonta Mines was the first mining company in Australia to pay £1,000,000 in dividends, which all started when Patrick "Paddy" Ryan discovered traces of copper in May 1861.

Pastoral lease holder Walter Watson Hughes heard of the discovery, after a syndicate was formed and members travelled with Ryan to Moonta to see the site. Hughes lodged a claim in the name of a dummy, but this was rejected.

Hughes returned to Moonta with a surveyor and met Ryan, who showed him where he had found the copper, and the survey information was taken to original shareholder, John Taylor.

Hughes asked mining magnate William Horn if he could get to Adelaide by 9am the next day, and Horn was so keen he rode nonstop for 22 hours, covering 164 miles, and exhausting eight horses.

Taylor and the rival syndicate were both present when the Lands Department opened, but Taylor received first attention and secured the leases, sparking a legal battle that went to the Privy Council, but Hughes settled out of court.

Forming the Tipara Mining Association, which later became the Moonta Mining Co, Taylor started operations in late 1861, with almost 5000 ton of ore being produced in the first year.

Under the management of mine captain Henry Richard "Cap'n" Hancock, the project developed rapidly with around 1200 men and boys employed by 1865 and in the next five years, more than 5000 people were dependent on the mine, which was producing 20,000 ton of dressed ore, averaging 20 per cent copper.

In 1876, Moonta Mines employed 1700 people, and amalgamated with Wallaroo Mines in 1890, by which time, ore worth £5,600,000 had been mined.

The new joint company employed an average of 1900 people during its 33 years of operation with employment reaching 2700 in 1906.

Smelting

The township of Wallaroo was surveyed in 1860, and the foreshore sold as water allotments to the Wallaroo Mining Company for the establishment of a smelting works for the ore being mined. The smelters operated until 1923 and, at one time, were the largest smelting works in the world outside of Swansea in Wales.

The Farm Shed Museum

The museum brings together some of the fascinating developments and practices of dryland farming.

Exhibits show the hardships endured on the land, detailing the process of land clearing, reliving the vital role of animals on farms and exploring the transition from horse to tractor-powered farming.

A collection of varied farming machinery is complemented by Kadina history themes.

The Wallaroo mine, where copper mining started, was within sight of Matta House, the historical residence which forms part of the museum.

Matta House evokes the mining era.

Other displays include Life at Wallaroo Mines;

They Served, about local service men and women; The Local Newspaper, with giant printing presses; a 1950s rural schoolroom from Kulpara; Her Side of the Story, about women's roles on the farm; and Farmyard, highlighting children's roles on the farm.

The farming story starts with a look at many aspects of life for farming families.

Interpretive displays follow the process from clearing the scrub to sowing the grain and the progress towards broadacre cereal farming which sustains Yorke Peninsula.

Don't miss the display Sowing the Seed, the harvesting machinery shed, and the vintage tractor and vehicle collection.

You will leave with renewed appreciation of how far the Copper Coast has come, and of the tremendous volunteer effort which has gone into creating such high-standard displays.

Discover

Moonta, Moonta Mines and Moonta Bay

Moonta was home to more than 10,000 people during its mining heyday in 1870, the second highest population centres in the state behind the capital city of Adelaide.

Many of Moonta Mines' iconic structures still exist today and are protected by State and National Heritage listings. The area, now home to 5194 people, is more than just its history though. Moonta, Moonta Bay and Port Hughes are regarded highly for their sweeping white beaches, boat-launching facilities for fishers and the shady Queen Square with its memorials and wombats. The bustling central business district and numerous acclaimed eateries are always a highlight. Moonta, Moonta Mines, Moonta Bay and Port Hughes offer something for everyone.

Hughes Enginehouse

Hughes Enginehouse is one of Moonta's iconic buildings and features prominently in promotional material. It was built from 1863 to 1865 and was a significant contributor to the success of the Moonta Mining Company, its function being to pump water from the underground workings on the largest ore bodies. The Cornish-beam pumping engine pumped water from the adjacent shaft at a depth of 366 metres, and from Taylor's Shaft 300m to the north at a depth of 768m, until the mine closed in 1923.

Address: Moonta Mines (follow signs from Verran Terrace).

Horse-drawn Tram

Visitors can see this restored horse-drawn tram through a viewing window at the Moonta Mines Tourist Railway platform, located in the car park of the Moonta Mines Museum.

Address: Verran Terrace, Moonta Mines.

Miners Cottage and Garden

Opened by the National Trust as a museum on October 9, 1967, the cottage is preserved for present and future generations so they may appreciate the way Cornish families survived in the area without reticulated water or electricity. Step back in time and see the way the pioneers of the area lived. The cottage and its magnificent garden are lovingly tended by a group of enthusiastic volunteers.

Address: Verco Street, Moonta Mines.

Splash Town Water Park

Located at Moonta Bay near the jetty and safe swimming enclosure is Splash Town Water Park. On offer is free entry to a whole lot of fun – racer slides, water mushrooms and wading pools. Changing and toilet facilities are available on site. Splash Town is open October to May.

For Splash Town opening days and hours, contact the Copper Coast Visitor Information Centre on 8821 2333, or visit the Facebook page www.facebook.com/splashtowncoppercoast

Moonta Gallery of the Arts

Moonta Gallery of the Arts is all about keeping the arts alive. The gallery has a different exhibition each month with most exhibitions having their own opening events. Exhibitions range from local to internationally renowned artists with a range of themes and styles. Contact the gallery for information about upcoming opening nights and exhibitions. Most artwork is for sale.

Address: Moonta Town Hall, George Street.

Moonta Mines Tourist Railway

A trip on the hugely popular, award-winning tourist train leaves from the Wheal Munta station located in the car park of the Moonta Mines Museum. It takes passengers on an entertaining 50-minute guided tour through the historical landmarks of former mining operations. Sit back and listen to the history of the region and the stories of the world-renowned Cornish miners, the workings of the mines and ore sorting floors, reservoir and the tunnel through Ryan's tailing heap, as well as other interesting tales.

Address: Verran Terrace, Moonta Mines.

Moonta Mines Museum

Moonta Mines Museum is in the former Moonta Mines Model School which once had almost 1250 pupils enrolled. It houses displays depicting the old Cornish lifestyle including mining, sports and pastimes, military, music, homewares, clothing and photography. There is an interesting collection of the equipment belonging to many of lodges and guilds of old Moonta, as well as a refurbished school classroom.

Address: Verran Terrace, Moonta Mines.

Moonta School of Mines

Moonta School of Mines has a helpful group of friendly volunteers who have years of experience and are able to help research family history. There are also equipment and facilities to help visitors research their own family history and discover their Cornish ancestry. There are interesting displays and collections to see, including an extensive medical display, working mine models and many old photographs.

Address: Ellen Street, Moonta.

Moonta Mines Sweet Shop

Many consider the number one place to visit on the Copper Coast to be the Moonta Mines Sweet Shop. Located in the old Moonta Mines Post Office, this well-stocked sweet shop features a large variety of old-fashioned drinks and sweets.
Address: Verran Terrace, Moonta Mines.

The Blacksmith Shop

This working display at Moonta Mines provides visitors with a view of an operating traditional blacksmith shop from back in the copper mining days. Handcrafted items are available for purchase.

Address: Verran Terrace, Moonta Mines.

Food, glorious food

Moonta, Moonta Bay and Port Hughes are filled with wonderful options to stop and have a bite. From a classic Cornish pasty or baked goods, pub favourites, fish and chips, beautiful breakfasts and locally sourced produce, there is something for everyone.

Moonta Mines Methodist Church

The stone Moonta Mines Methodist Church was erected by Wesleyan Methodists in 1865, and the foundation stone was laid by mining icon Cap'n Hancock. A gallery was added in 1872, giving the church a seating capacity of 1250. A pipe organ was purchased in 1890 thanks to a donation by Cap'n Hancock, and it's still used to this day. The building was purchased by Field of Dreams Church in July, 2022, and services are held weekly.

Address: 557 Milne Street, Moonta Mines.

Richmans Enginehouse

This enginehouse was designed and erected by Frederick May in 1869 and was constructed using stone from local Moonta Bay beaches. The main purpose of the enginehouse was for hauling, pumping and crushing, and it was continually used to process and concentrate the ore until the mines closed in 1923.

Address: Moonta Mines (follow signs from Verran Terrace).

Ryan's Wombat Burrow

Moonta and District Progress Association unveiled the installation of two fibreglass wombats in Queen Square, Moonta, in 2018. The wombats symbolise the area's rich mining history.

In about 1861, this area was mostly scrubland and a large part was leased by Walter Watson Hughes. One of Mr Hughes' shepherds, Patrick Ryan, was walking through the thick scrub when he found a wombat burrow and saw the tell-tale green rocks that indicated copper, which Hughes' employees had been told to look out for.

The discovery of copper shaped Moonta, and the whole state, it is important that we recognise that mining history.

Address: Queen Square, Moonta

Moonta Bay Jetty

The long L-shaped jetty is well worth the visit when you are at Moonta Bay. Upgraded in 2012, the jetty provides a perfect spot for recreational fishing. The catch of the day may include Australian herring (tommy ruff), garfish and squid, especially towards the late afternoon and evening when the tide is on the way in. There is a recently upgraded swimming enclosure which can be accessed via the jetty. The Moonta Bay beach is located directly in front of the Moonta Bay Caravan Park, and is a lovely sandy beach suitable for all ages. When the tide goes out there is plenty of beach to play on and shallow rock pools to explore. On the south side of the Moonta Bay jetty the white, sandy beach extends all the way to Port Hughes.

Moonta Tourist Train

Old Railway Station and Moonta Tourist Office

This beautiful building at the entrance to the town is more than 100 years old. It houses the National Trust of South Australia Moonta branch, and visitor information outlet. Pamphlets and maps of the area describing the many National Trust venues as well as other interesting features are available, and group bookings can also be made with the help of the friendly volunteer staff. Quality souvenirs, giftware and many books relevant to Moonta's history can also be found here. Whilst in the grounds, take time to see the World War I trophy gun and learn about its history. Address: Blanche Terrace, Moonta.

Secret Garden

The secret garden is a much-loved local spot which has been beautifully maintained by residents. It features a separate grassed area, accessed by steps, in a shaded natural area suitable for picnics and is very popular for small weddings. There is seating suitable for children around part of the grassed area. A path leads to the Moonta Bay foreshore.

Address: Kemp Place.

Address: Queen Square, Moonta.

Moonta-Wallaroo Walking/ Cycling Track

The newest addition to the Coper Coast's active attractions, the Moonta-Wallaroo track starts in the Mines area before following the old railway line.

The Port Hughes Coastal Trail begins at Simms Cove and is a great way to take in the scenery while learning about the town's history.

The Friends of Port Hughes fundraised to create a monument on the Port Hughes foreshore to remember the men and women who lost their lives in the waters off Port Hughes and Moonta Bay. There are 23 names on the memorial with their stories published in a book, available at the Port Hughes General Store. Address: Port Hughes foreshore

Discover Wallaroo

Where else but Wallaroo, South Australia's 2022 Small Tourism Town of the Year, can you drive onto the beach, step out of the car and feel the sand between your toes?

Wallaroo features popular spots to eat, stay and shop, including the Wallaroo Shopping Centre. Its shipping terminal caters for international grain needs and shares the picturesque foreshore with ideal spots to fish, swim or just relax. Wallaroo was once the second busiest port in South Australia, mainly due to mining and smelting. Many historical buildings of that time are still preserved. There is plenty of accommodation to suit all tastes and budgets from inexpensive stays to tourist parks, group accommodation, luxury apartments and holiday rentals. People visit for the boating, fishing, coastline, walking trails and all the things that make a seaside resort, plus the history and association with the past.

Wallaroo beaches

Wallaroo has a number of beaches including Office Beach, North Beach (pictured) and Sailing Club Beach. All are great for swimming. North Beach is one of the few beaches in South Australia on which a vehicle can still be driven. Wallaroo is also popular for scuba divers and snorkellers. For those looking for the ultimate day's fishing, Wallaroo is an ideal destination.

Rotary Copper Trail walking/cycling track

The Rotary Copper Trail between Wallaroo and Kadina allows people to walk, run, cycle or use their mobility aids without having to negotiate vehicular traffic. The track starts with the Wallaroo Avenue of Honour which recognises those who lost their lives in war, located near the Wallaroo Town Hall. It then stretches along the original railway line to Kadina with informative signs, shelter stops and sights along the way.

Wallaroo-Moonta walking/cycling track

The newest addition to the Copper Coast's active attractions, the Wallaroo to Moonta track starts on Ryan Street, before heading along Cornish and Park Terraces to meet the original railway line.

Drakes Supermarkets Copper Coast New Year's Eve Celebrations

Chatfield Terrace at Wallaroo comes alive every New Year's Eve, when families can enjoy a variety of sideshows and amusements, and plenty of great carnival food. The whole family will love the spectacular fireworks displays which can be viewed at 9.30pm and again at midnight to bring in the New Year. The Drakes Supermarkets Copper Coast New Year's Eve Celebration is an alcohol-free event.

Address: Chatfield Terrace, Wallaroo

Wallaroo Heritage and Nautical Museum

This fascinating museum is in the town's first post office, built in 1865, and provides an important insight into the early activities of this historical port. The museum consists of displays highlighting Wallaroo's unique heritage. The extensive exhibits cover the copper smelting era (1861-1923), maritime, shipwrecks, railways, postal and telephone history, local religious life, civic affairs, entertainment, sport, the war years and general local history. The days of sail are illustrated in the large nautical section where visitors can follow the close links the area had with copper mining and smelting, agriculture and the sea. The history of the port of Wallaroo is depicted with more than 70 large ship models, photographs, documents, relics and old record books. An intriguing exhibit is George the giant squid, found inside the stomach of a whale caught off Albany, Western Australia, many years ago.

Address: Jetty Road, Wallaroo.

Stay and explore the wider Yorke Peninsula

There is plenty to see and do across the wider Yorke Peninsula, and just a short drive from your Copper Coast stay, you will find countless options to fill in your day.

Ample accommodation means there is something for everyone close to all the shopping, amenities and attractions the Copper Coast has to offer.

Yorke Peninsula is home to cellar doors, a micro-distillery and micro-breweries, all close enough to be enjoyed on a single-day round trip from your accommodation.

Barley Stacks Wines, South Kilkerran, and Emoyeni Wines, Ardrossan, feature a range of unique wines, including from locally grown grapes, and have cellar doors open for tastings.

Just north of Arthurton is Sunny Hill Distillery, the peninsula's first micro-distillery producing award-winning vodka and gin.

Further south, in Minlaton, you'll find Watsacowie Brewing Company and its delicious selection of local brewed beverages.

You could also head to the Top of the Yorke.

On a drive to Port Broughton, perhaps call into what has quickly become one of the area's most revered food stops, Karimi's Kitchen at Alford, on the way.

When you get to Port Broughton, enjoy the coastal lifestyle, local shops, art galleries, town jetty and children's play areas.

In the past year, Bute has added to its landscape by completing its own silo art project.

A trip down south is also sure to inspire with the SYP art trail and salt lake walking trail to explore.

If you are keen to experience the peninsula's beauty on foot, the Walk the Yorke trail extends from the foreshores of the Copper Coast right around the entire Yorke Peninsula with spectacular views from start to finish.

If you're looking for a guide, The Coastal Way road trip is a glorious way to travel around the peninsula.

When you stay on the Copper Coast, you have the entire Yorke Peninsula within your reach.
